

Need for blood constant: Reader

LETTERS

Dear Editor,

Last week marked nine years since I was involved in a near-tragic car accident. Every year around this time, I start thinking about how lucky I am to be here today.

Recently, there have been articles regarding major blood shortages in York Region.

Just to give you an idea of what Red Cross needs are, the average body contains between 7-8 units of blood.

During my stay at the hospital, I had 52 units pumped through my body.

I have every one of those 52 donors (and of course the doctors and nurses) to thank for saving my life.

I would like to take this opportunity to ask each of you to please make a donation this week. I guarantee that sometime in the near future, someone will be thanking you too!

Thanks, fire dept.

Dear Editor,

Late Wednesday evening Oct. 15 we had the misfortune of experiencing a fire inside the wall of our fireplace. Within minutes after dialing 911, we were elated to see the fire trucks on the scene.

The firefighters immediately set about their work, and conducted themselves in a courteous attentive and professional manner.

Our thanks to all involved for a job well done.

A special note of thanks to Murray Emmerson who returned on a couple of occasions during the wee hours to see if everything and everyone was secure.
