

Liquor stores collecting funds for ice storm relief

Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations David Tsubouchi has announced that the LCBO is collecting funds for recovery efforts in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, following the devastating ice storm of the past week.

"By placing donation boxes at check-out counters in almost 600 LCBO stores across Ontario, we can provide an efficient means for citizens to contribute to the Canadian Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund," Tsubouchi said. "Each of us must do our part to assist in this time of need, and the LCBO is the perfect network to collect assistance province-wide."

"Historically, the LCBO has been very successful raising money for community and charitable organizations through its donation box program," said LCBO chair and CEO Andrew Brandt.

"We hope the public will take this opportunity to support their fellow Canadians who have suffered so much recently." Those wishing to make donations can call the toll-free LCBO infoline at 1-800-ONE LCBO (1-800-668-5226) for the location of their nearest LCBO store.

Childbirth education series

Choices Childbirth Education and Labour Support Services, a non-profit organization, will be holding a childbirth education series for families in York and Durham Regions.

This series will focus on the many issues facing childbearing families today. Pain management, supporting a labouring woman, communicating with caregivers and postpartum adjustment are just a few of the topics covered in this six-week series.

CHOICES has been providing services to expectant families in Durham, Scarborough and Toronto for five years. Over that time they have continued to offer choice-based and consumer-oriented prenatal classes that focus on the family playing an active role in the decision making process surrounding their care. If you would like further information on the series please call (416) 410-9931 or (905) 420-0223.
