Dedicate a book in name of a mentor

You may notice that The Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library has a display of two children's classics, Little Women and Little Men by Louisa May Alcott.

These books have been dedicated to the memory of a past library volunteer, Evelyn Aiken. Mrs. Aiken loved books and wished to share this love with others.

Book dedications are not limited to library volunteers. You too can dedicate library materials to someone who has influenced your life.

Perhaps you have a friend who has performed many kindnesses to you over the years.

How special your friend will feel knowing a children's book on friendship is dedicated to him or her.

Do you have an aunt who loves Catherine Cookson novels? Come into the library and we'll get an edition in her name.

She will have the opportunity to read the book and know that others will enjoy it afterwards.

Dedications are ideal for family members, especially those who have everything! Any grandparent would be thrilled to know a copy of Something to Remember Me By, by Bosak or Guess How Much I Love You by McBratney is dedicated to them. A book plate will be fixed inside the book for all to see.

Coaches, educators, or group leaders are ideal candidates for book dedications. So many people give that "little bit extra" to others. There are many books available to commemorate care, encouragement and thoughtfulness.

Dance for judo students

Tickets are still available for a fundraising dance being held March 7 at Stouffville's Latham Hall.

Money raised will help offset the cost of sending six local children to a national judo competition in British Columbia in mid-March.

The Stouffville children, members of the Sheffield Judo Club, are Ontario's representatives at the national meet.

Last weekend, national competitors Katie Jones, Paddy Spear, Trevor Kyle, Dusty Chée, a Tow, Seige Ishigur and other club members raised $350 in a bottle drive, while they hope their parents will be even more successful with the dance.

The non-profit club hopes the dance draws a good crowd.

LIBRARY NEWS

If you are interested in making a dedication, the library will help you with your selection and ensure that it meets the library's collection development and gift policies.

Numerous catalogues are available. You can come in, browse the catalogues and find a book that best commemorates your special person's character and complements the library collection.

Evelyn Aiken was a special person. She will long be remembered by all who knew her, and her legacy will continue within the covers of two special children's books.
