United Way needs to know community's 'crucial needs'

United Way of York Region (UWYR) invites individuals living or working in York Region to identify the most critical social needs in the Region and how best to address those needs. This community feedback will be compiled with information the United Way gathers from other sources through its community research project which commenced in early March. Interested community members are being asked to identify three top social and health issues of concern to them from the following list, briefly explain why these issues are important, and what they think would improve the situation.

Issues to be considered include: adequate housing, food and clothing, transportation, and mobility, opportunities for employment, income, security, safety, developmental needs of families, children and single parents and elderly people, economic development opportunities, access to decision-making, and health promotion. Responses can be phoned into Compass Consulting Associates at 1-888-656-6616, e-mailed to e.katsof@sympatico.ca, or mailed to UWYR, 3950-14th Avenue, Markham L3R 0A9.
