Canon Puxley ministered here

Many residents will be saddened to hear of the death of the Reverend Canon Jim Puxley, who served as honorary assistant of Christ Church Anglican from 1973 to 1987.

Canon Puxley was born in England in 1907 and died in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, on March 15, 1998. He received his Master of Arts from Oxford University in 1929 and studied Economics at Yale, before going on to become head of economics at Agra University in India.

CANON JIM PUXLEY

He held honorary degrees from Trinity and Wycliffe colleges at the University of Toronto, as well as from University of King's College, and Acadia and St. Mary's universities. In 1954, he was named president of the University of King's College in Halifax and was internationally acknowledged for his ecumenical efforts to achieve Christian unity.

OBITUARY

A brilliant scholar, Canon Puxley was also a caring, very approachable individual with a wonderful sense of humour, whose gift for leading Bible study made him a loved and respected member of the community. Always true to his calling as a pastor, he treated all those who knew him with warmth and affection.

Canon Puxley retired to Dartmouth with his wife, Mary, in 1987.
