

Juried exhibition seeks artists

The Latham Gallery invites association members to take part in the 1998 Juried Exhibition.

Judging will take place July 14 and those works not chosen can be picked up July 15.

sessions will accommodate children aged 7 to 10 and afternoon classes are for those aged 10 to 13.

Entrants can submit up to two works for a fee of $10 per artist and submissions should be dropped off at the former gallery space at Whitchurch-Stouffville Library Sunday, July 12

Once again this summer, the gallery will host its popular series of children's art classes. Judy Bear Campbell will provide instruction in drawing, painting and sculpture July 6 to 10. Morning Children can also enroll in print making and decorative painting courses, with all classes held at the train station. For more information, or to register, call 640-8954

Indoor pool costs revealed next month

The cost of operating an indoor swimming pool in Stouffville could be known next month, local council learned Monday.

The cost to build the facility is about $3.5 million, the facility's operating cost remains unknown.

suggested that this cost could be ironed out in August or September.

The Stouffville Recreation Complex continues to be the favorite spot for a swimming facility. The package could include a pool, a water slide and a hot tub. As well, squash courts are also part of the plan.

Mayor Wayne Emmerson has suggested that an indoor pool facility will be open by the year 2000. The push for such a facility has been going on for more than a decade.
