

Many job opportunities available for students

Employment centre sees 10% increase in number of summer jobs posted

There's still time for that summer job — and time enough to hire a student. "Every day employers are still saying, 'We need students to work for us,'" employment officer Lesley Gaesewig said at the Human Resource Centre for Students last week in Markville Shopping Centre.

The job centre posts employment opportunities for Markham and Stouffville students.

The centre, on the lower level of the mall near the MY Place drop-in centre for youth, can find the right student for any job, even if it's just a day's filing or mowing a lawn, said Gaesewig.

Postings are free. There's even an "urgent" job board for employers who want students right away.

The centre is still open until the end of the month, but only from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and only on weekdays.

Plenty of young people are looking at the job boards, said Gaesewig. "Around 9:30, it's packed."

The centre posted 10 per cent more jobs this summer and all of those will be filled by the time it closes, said lead summer employment officer David Rose.

"Going into the tail-end of the employment race, we tend to get more odd jobs in," he noted.

But Rose said postings have shown a lot of variety this summer. There are jobs for labourers, web designers, and work in social services, he said.
