

Unitas school returns to Rec Centre

BY BRUCE STAPLEY
CORRESPONDENT

The Rec Centre will be the place to be to beat the heat for young hockey players during the week of Aug. 10-14.

The Unitas Power Skating and Shooting Stars Hockey School is scheduled to make its second annual appearance at the Stouffville rink, with boys and girls aged five through 13 invited to take part.

The school, which will be capped at 75 players, is to run three separate two-hour sessions on each of the five days.

Players will be divided into beginners, intermediate, and advanced groupings.

The first hour is to include power skating instruction, with the second hour devoted to the teaching of passing skills, puck handling and other tactics.

SKILL LEVEL IS NOT A FACTOR FOR STUDENTS

Jim Hamm, school co-ordinator and Stouffville resident, said the program is aimed at players of all skill levels.

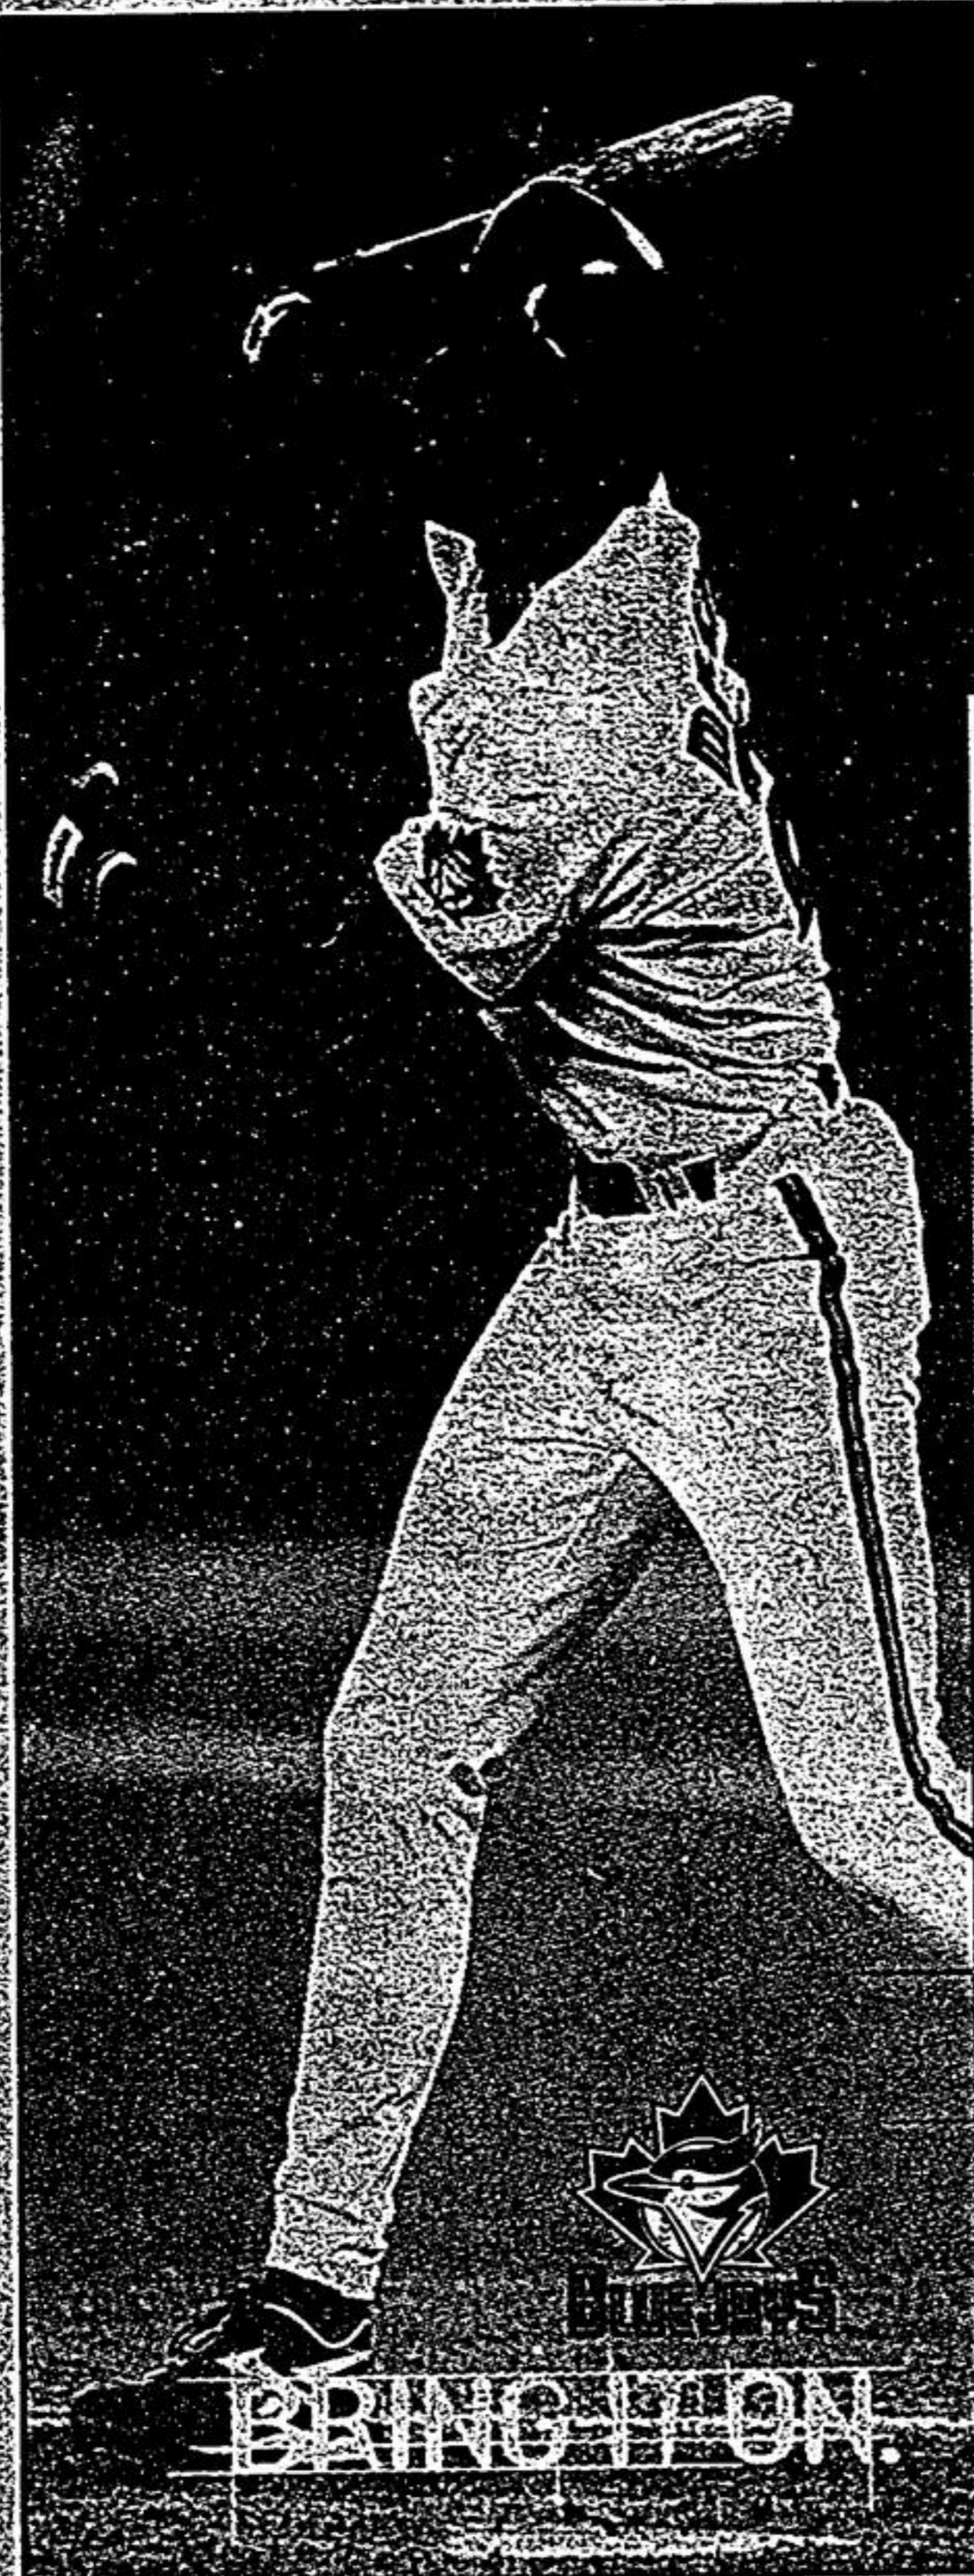

"We promote fun, although the advanced program is more demanding."

Hamm pointed out the demand for the school has been strong.

"We could have added a fourth session. We might offer something in early September before the season starts. A lot of kids are away for the summer and can't take part in August."

The Unitas program has been holding hockey schools in the Newmarket/Aurora area for 12 years.

Those wishing registration information for the Rec Centre school can contact Hamm at 640-2625.
