Learn about massage therapy

Tuesday will be a busy day at the Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library.

As it is National Massage Therapy Awareness Week, there will be a free, short information session from noon to 12:30 p.m. If you've been curious about this form of treatment, now is your opportunity to ask questions of a professional.

Borrow a couple of books on the topic. Thomas Claire's Bodywork: What Type of Massage to Get - And How to Make the Most of It, is a good overview of the subject. There are chapters on Western massage, rolling, Alexander technique, myofascial release, shiatsu, reflexology, and more.

Joan Johnson's book, The Healing Art of Sports Massage, is great for all the athletes in town. It's for runners, hikers, mountain bikers, swimmers, skiers, skaters...even volleyball players.

This book has some self-massage techniques which will help any of us with day-to-day cramps or aches as well as get us ready for a favourite workout.

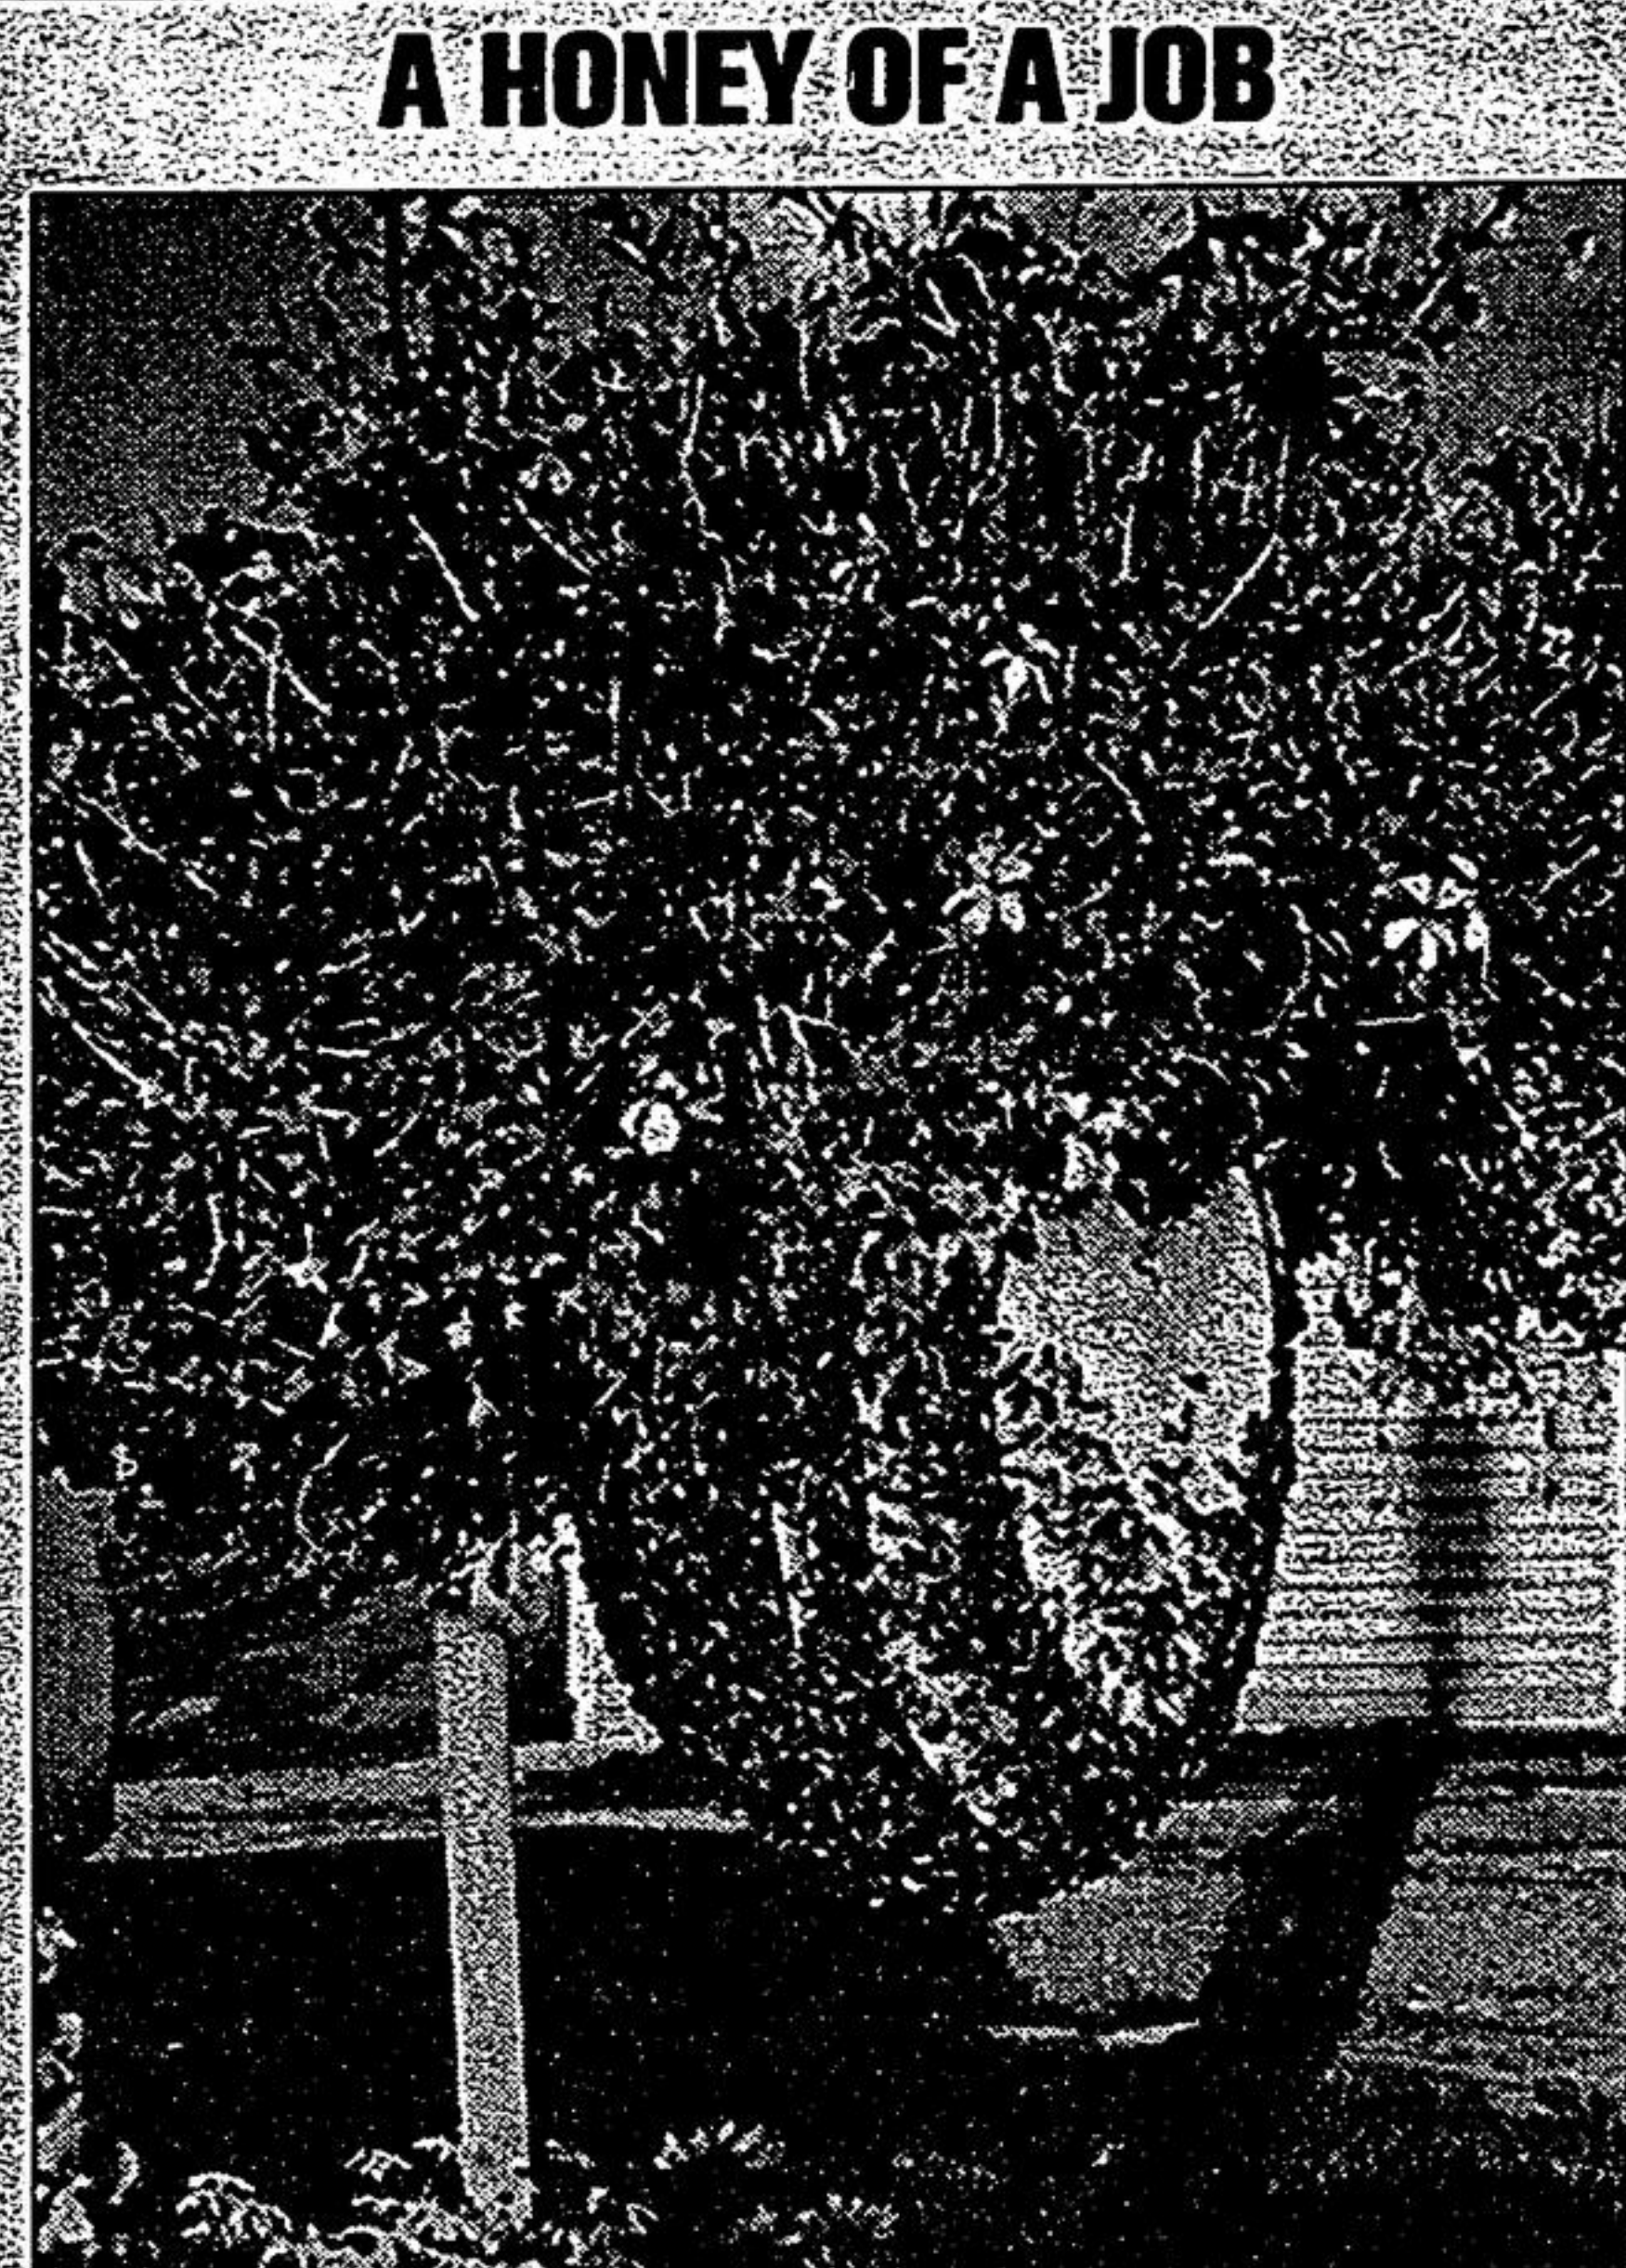

Then, when you're relaxed and warmed up, come back to the library on Tuesday evening, for a special meeting.

IMPORTANT MEETING

At 7:30 p.m. consultants will present a feasibility report to the library board regarding the library addition and the future role of the library.

Don't miss out on this very important opportunity. The presentation is not only about the walls of the library, but the roles performed within the space.

Local beekeeper Tony Rescador had his hands full earlier this week when he was called to remove this honey-bee hive from L & J Farm on Main Street in Stouffville. Rescador wrapped the entire hanging plant in a bag and carried the colony to his apiary on Stouffville Road between Kennedy Road and McCowan Road.
