Dance benefits Canadian National Institute for the Blind and Markham Theatre

NOREEN O'LEARY
CORRESPONDENT

Bust out those dancing shoes and get ready to boogie woogie tonight.

Markham Theatre and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (CNIB) of York Region jointly present the Boogie Woogie Ball, a gala dinner and fundraiser at Le Parc Banquet Hall in Markham this evening.

The fun begins at 6:30 p.m.

The two organizations hope to raise $30,000, with net revenue shared equally.

The CNIB will use the proceeds to purchase library talking books to benefit 1,200 visually impaired York Region residents.

Markham Theatre will use the funds to continue supporting various community and educational organizations that use the theatre's facilities at low costs.

The Boogie Woogie Ball will transform guests to a glamorous era of music and dancing. The theme for the evening will centre around the age of steam locomotives and luxurious train travel.

"We will be decorating the hall with props and backdrops to give the feel of the old train travel era," said Barb Smith of Markham Theatre.

Comedian Dave Broadfoot will be hosting the evening, along with the swinging dance music of The Canadian Tribute to Glen Miller band.

Included in the evening is a cocktail reception, followed by a four-course gourmet dinner with wine, open bar, and live auction.

Tickets are $125 each and are available through the Markham Theatre box office at (905) 305-SHOW or by calling the CNIB at (905) 731-6307.

Art show slated for Sunday

Three award-winning artists will be displaying their works in Unionville Sunday.

The Grey House, behind Blacksmiths Bistro on Main Street, Unionville, will be the setting for the show. It will run from 2 to 5 p.m. on Nov. 22 and feature the works of J. Douglas Thompson, Diana Lynn Dooly-Marek and Donald Westlake.

The artists will be on hand to discuss their art, which will also be on sale.

Dooly-Marek concentrates on renditions of bistros and cafes, done in acrylic. In fact, she's been commissioned by President's Choice to create 20 paintings of bistros to be used in a calendar for the millennium.

Westlake has shown his oils across southern Ontario for the past seven years.

Thompson's recent acrylic and watercolour paintings reflect his love of nature and travel.
