ENTERTAINMENT: Stratford actor/director returns to hometown with his Christmas production

Haul out the Holly tomorrow

NOREEN O'LEARY CORRESPONDENT

Michael McGinn is on the move. After setting up a training program for himself as a director in training with the Stratford Festival, the Stouffville actor/director/producer landed himself the position of assistant director for the dramatic adaptation of Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice.

McGinn said the play is based on an entirely new script and is a new addition to the festival.

McGinn's position at the Stratford Theatre will require him to move to Stratford from February to June. Since funding for this position stopped several years ago, McGinn is holding a benefit concert at the Stouffville United Church on Nov. 29 to assist him with some of the costs.

"I thought it would be a good idea to generate some support and let the community know what I'm doing," he said.

The Haul Out the Holly concert will celebrate the spirit of Christmas, with 15 cast members from the musicals Beauty and the Beast, Ragtime, Show Boat, and Forever Plaid performing classical, contemporary, and pop Christmas tunes.

McGinn, who grew up in Stouffville, has been involved in musical theatre since high school. He studied musical theatre at Sheridan College, then attended the University of Waterloo, receiving a degree in Drama and Arts Administration.

The show starts at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15 for adults and are available at the door or by phoning (416) 777-1851.
