Cami builds four SUVs

(NC) - Two carmakers have picked Ontario to build four new 1999 models. The Chevrolet Tracker four-door hardtop and two-door convertible and the Suzuki Vitara four-door hardtop and two-door convertible will be built at the CAMI Automotive Inc., a joint venture company formed by General Motors of Canada and the Suzuki Motor Corporation over a decade ago.

Not only does it mean continued work for the more than 2,000 CAMI employees, Ontario companies supply almost $400 million in components and services to CAMI every year.

the Tracker is the perfect combination of ruggedness and refinement.

GM president Maureen Kempston Darkes said, "the Tracker is the perfect combination of ruggedness and refinement.

"It is a real truck with full ladder type frame, like all Chevrolet trucks, not a car type unibody construction like other competitors.

The Tracker and Vitara are aimed at the small sport utility vehicle segment, the fastest-growing sport truck market area.
