Professional Management Services can look after your business needs. Professional Management Services help you with all your business and financial needs. Owned by Shelley Maitland and Rick Shadbolt, Professional Management Services has been helping individuals, small business people and corporations for more than 20 years. The company provides a broad range of services, which includes everything from a simple tax return to incorporation and everything in between.

"We are there to help people," Maitland said. Professional Management Services offers an initial consultation. "There is no obligation. People come in and we talk about what we do and how we can help them. This way we establish a good rapport right off." Then the work begins. Working with the client and a variety of professionals, Professional Management Services can create business plans, set up and manage businesses, set up accounting programs on the computer, complete income taxes, train staff and more. They also can do bookkeeping on the computer. But what the company specializes in is customer satisfaction.

"We are always available and accessible. We really enjoy working with people."

Some of the best hairstylists in the business work at Back Stage Hair

People who go to Back Stage Hair will have their hair cut and styled by some of the best stylists in the province.

Before

After

"We continually compete in national competitions," said Joe Fuina, who owns the modern salon with his brother Nunzio. "This keeps us abreast with the latest techniques and styles." Before any work is begun, the stylists will ask a number of questions to find out what their clients' needs and lifestyles are. They will also look at face shape, hair texture and other things that will affect how a hairstyle will look. The time spent at this step will ensure the hairstyle the client chooses will not only look flattering, but will only take as much time to care for as the client is willing to spend.

Once a hairstyle is chosen, the stylists will cut the hair, explaining why they are doing it and how the client can maintain their new style. The whole experience at Back Stage Hair is positive.

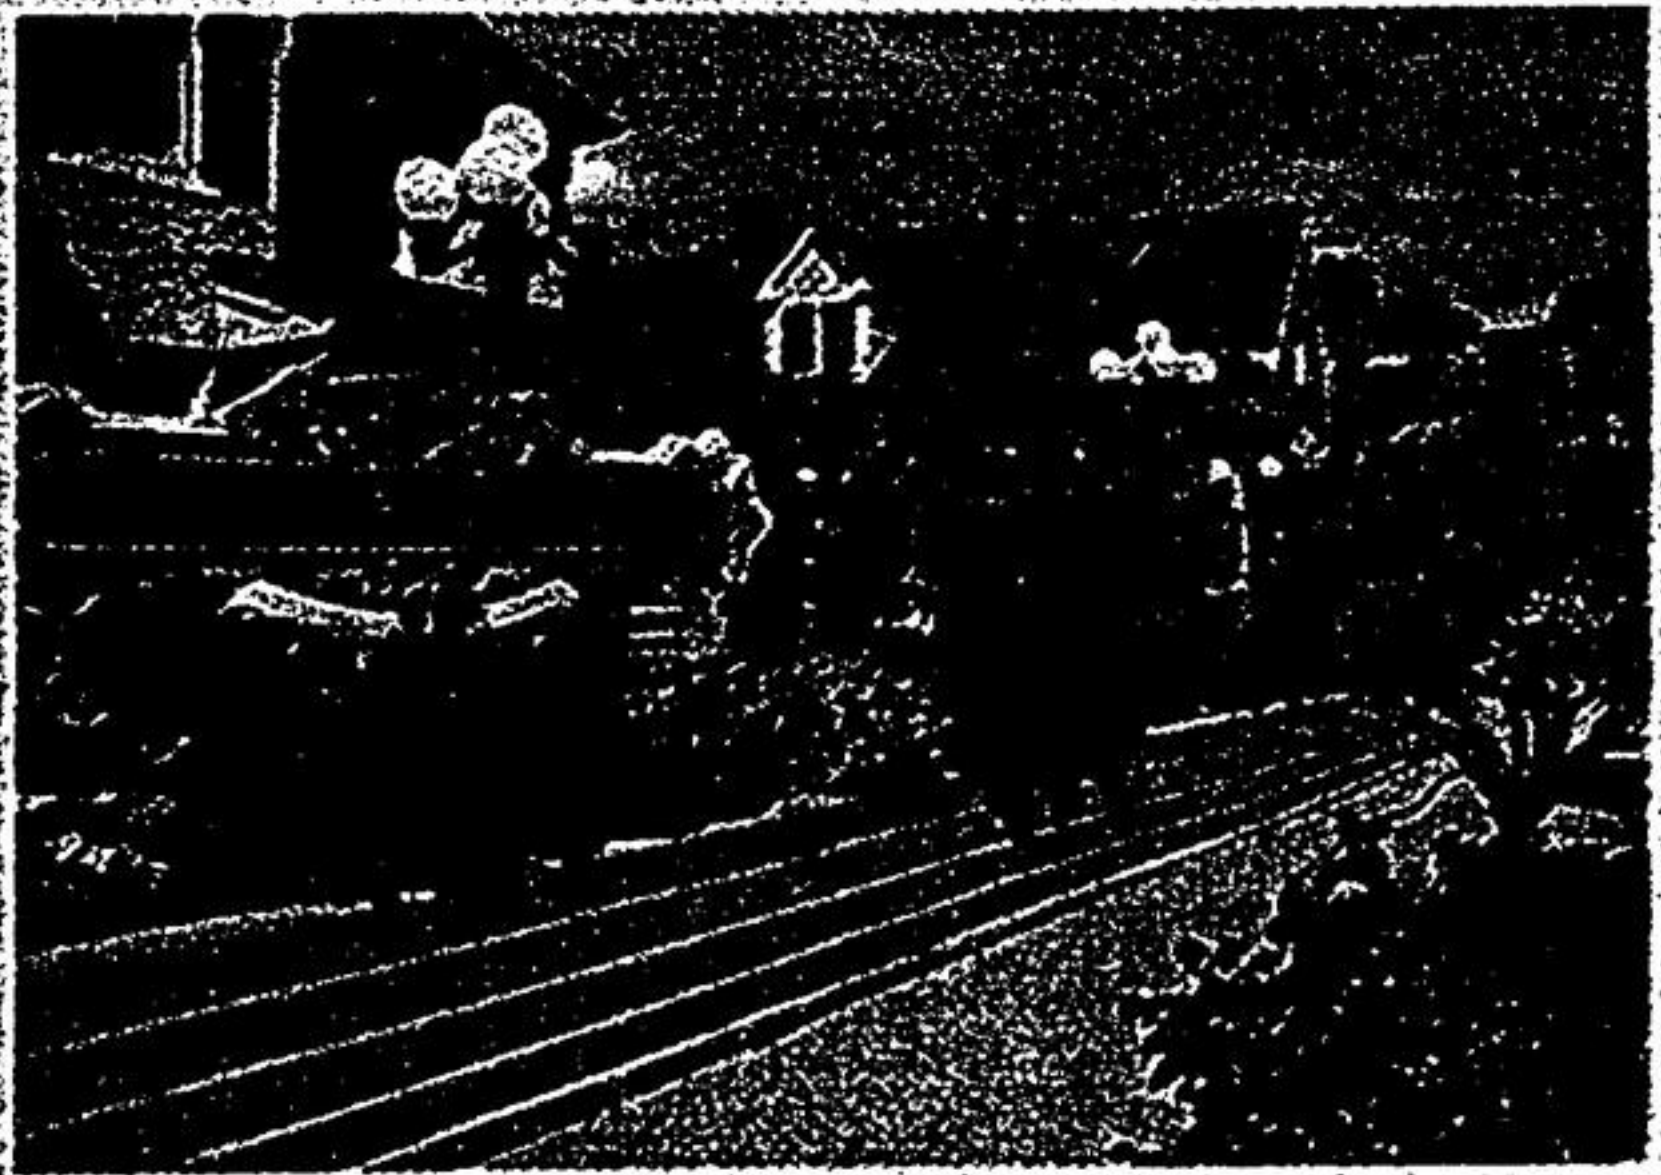

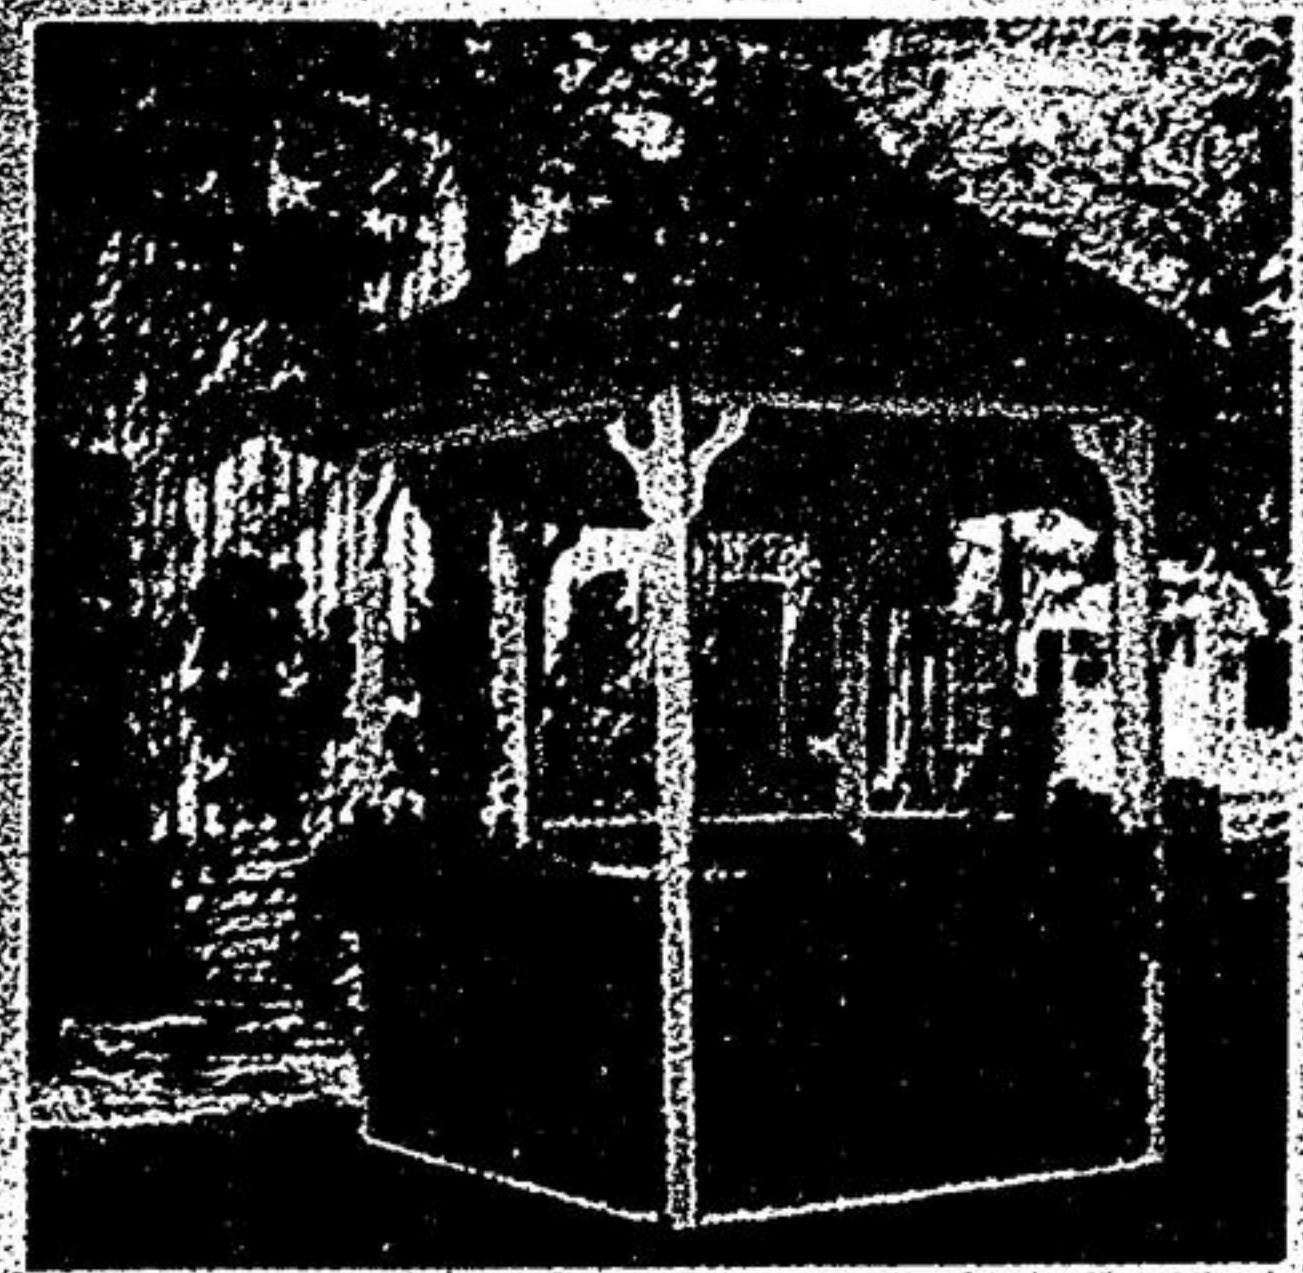

"It's a fun, energetic salon," Fuina said.

Back Stage Hair also has an esthetician who does a broad range of services.
