Brainchild — helping to find a cure for brain cancer

Brainchild's ultimate goal is to eliminate the existence of brain cancer in children, but in the meantime, the group helps children and their families to live with the disease.

Brainchild was started in 1993 to provide the much-needed support to children and their family and friends, to inform people about the importance of early detection, and to provide funds for the research into causes and treatments of brain tumours.

Despite the number of new cases of brain tumours in children — the Hospital for Sick Children reported 100 new cases last year — the cause of brain cancer is unknown and there is no way to predict or prevent it.

SUMMERFEST

To help children and their families, Brainchild is hosting its annual Summerfest.

To date, the annual event has raised $200,000.

The money is used for the research of ultrasound for diagnosis and treatment of cerebrospinal fluid shunt failure and funds also helped purchase a computer database and cell tissue storage container for the Laboratory Identification for Epidemiology.

Brainchild also has provided ambulatory pumps for terminally ill children to allow them some mobility at the hospital and ensured there is a VCR in every patient room in the neurosurgical unit.

What: Summerfest, Brainchild's annual carnival that raises money to fund research into childhood brain tumours and to enhance patient care.

When: Saturday, Aug 7

Where: Markham Fairgrounds

Cost: $5, which includes a raffle ticket to win a Honda Civic Hatchback.

What is there: Helicopter rides, jumping castles, games, corn roast, hot air balloons (weather permitting) and appearances by children's favourite TV and movie characters. There will also be a silent auction.

For details: About Brainchild call 416-813-7974 or committee president Gary Kisilowski at 905-764-0922.
