Noise bylaw charges laid against firms

BY KATHLEEN GRIFFIN
Staff Writer

Long-suffering residents of Markham's east end have filed dozens of complaints with the town after two Hwy. 407 construction companies disregarded the town's noise bylaw, working well outside the hours agreed upon by the 407, town staff and residents.

Town of Markham bylaw enforcement staff have so far laid six charges — each carrying a maximum $5,000 fine — against SLF Joint Venture, the 407 contractor, and Ambro Construction, a sub-contractor.

If SLF cannot comply with Markham's bylaw, a stop-work order will be issued by the town, promises Ward 5 Councillor Jack Heath.

"We have received at least two dozen complaints," he said. "People are really upset. Work is going on outside the 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday to Saturday bylaw."

Heath told council Tuesday that many residents have made a concerted effort to leave for work prior to 7 a.m. to avoid flag people and other construction delays, but are still getting caught.

Some motorists have seen construction crews out as early as 6:15 a.m., he said, as construction on the highway extension continues past the Ninth Line and into Pickering.

The first noise complaint was received in June and SLF was given a written warning. Two inspections by bylaw enforcement staff were conducted in August and another warning issued at that time.

A third warning was issued after a resident complained Nov. 15 and since then 27 inspections have been conducted resulting in the six charges.

SLF spokesperson Betty Fevreau could not be reached for comment Friday.

Thank you!

I look forward to working on your behalf and giving Markham a real voice in a Liberal government.
