

The year 2000's triumphs and tragedies

Selections from photographer Sjoerd Witteveen's portfolio

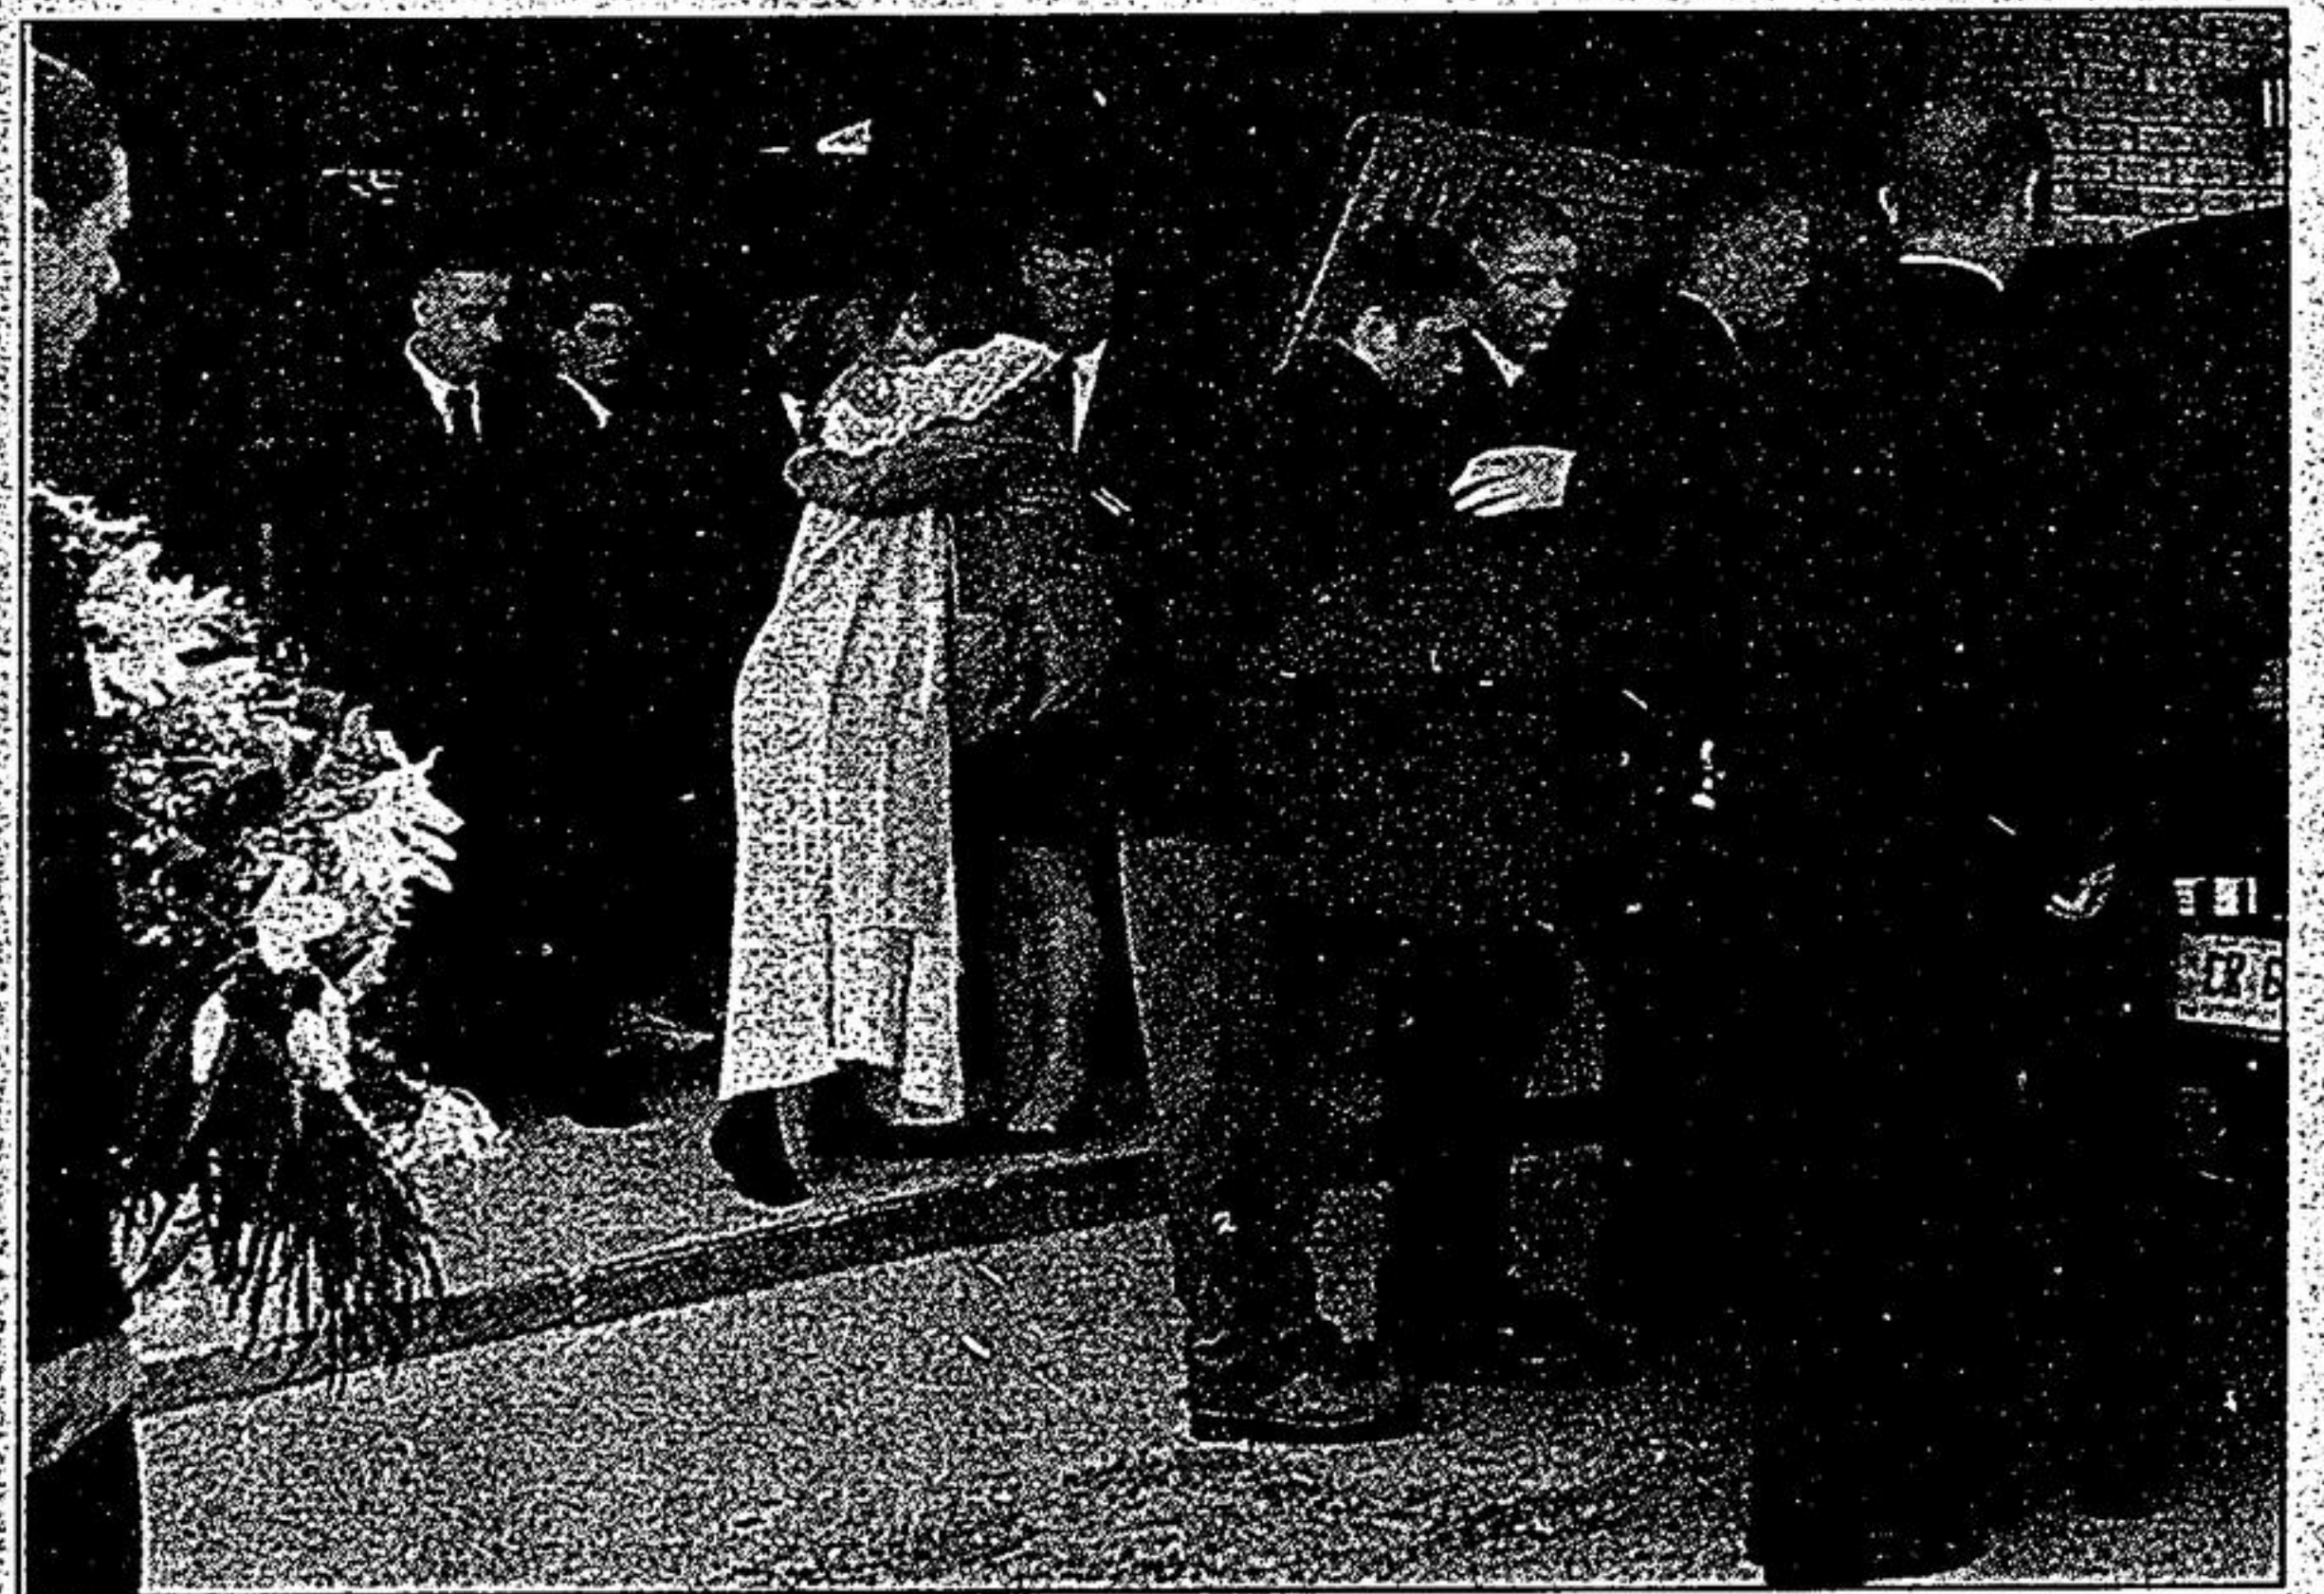

York Regional Police Chief Robert Middaugh speaks during the unveiling of a new police helicopter at Buttonville Airport in March.

A 29-year-old mother of two from Newmarket died at Markham Stouffville Hospital after this collision May 30. The woman's Mazda was struck near the intersection of Woodbine Avenue and John Street.

Janet Pagani, mother of Stouffville drowning victim Chris Pagani, is hugged by Rev. Dr. Lillian Perigoe, who conducted a memorial service for the teen at Springvale Baptist Church in June.

York County Hospital in Richmond Hill had a rarity in September: five sets of twins together in its neonatal unit. From left are: Damian and Katarina Steiger of Keswick, Samantha and Selena West of Egbert, Teagan and Gillian Cameron of Newmarket, James and John Cummins of Mount Albert, and Travis and Dylan Campbell of Newmarket.
