

Mayor asks for regional fire department

BY JOAN RANSBERRY
Staff Writer

If it worked with the police, why not the fire departments, government officials have been asking for years.

Blending York Region's fire services together in the same manner municipal police departments were joined together more than 30 years ago has been talked about for years.

The question is being asked again today. But, this time it's being asked in an official capacity. Whitchurch-Stouffville Mayor Wayne Emmerson is spearheading the move to have municipal fire departments join together to form the York Region Fire Department.

Emmerson is presenting a motion at York council today calling for support. He told Whitchurch-Stouffville council Tuesday that he does not anticipate Vaughan will be interested in joining a regional fire department, but he anticipates support from Markham, Richmond Hill, King Township, East Gwillimbury, Newmarket, Aurora and Georgina.
