

Thrift shop helps the needy around the world

Shoppe has outgrown its present location on Main Street, one block east of the library site.

After 20 years in business, "we're jammed up" at the present location, said Hogg. "We're crammed. We need more space."

The library is a suitable spot for such a store, said Hogg.

"It's large, wheelchair and baby stroller accessible. It's a better environment for our customers and for our volunteers," he pointed out.

The Care and Share Shoppe is part of a network of 14 thrift shops in Ontario owned by the MCCO. Run by volunteers with all items donated, the thrift shops are a non-profit marketing program, an international relief organization which works in Canada and globally among people suffering from poverty, conflict, oppression and natural disaster, said Hogg. The MCCO has 1,500 workers in 58 countries.

Once the terms of the lease are determined and the deal is signed and renovation work completed, officials of the Care and Share would be ready to start packing in preparation for the move. "It would depend on when the library is vacant," said Hogg.

All local library services will be part of the $7.5-million all-purpose complex being built at Memorial Park South. A Sept. 8 opening is set for the complex.

Instead of selling the old library, the town opted to keep the building and offered it on a lease agreement.

My name is Patricia Carley. I'm a civil servant, homemaker and Grandmother. Amazing as it seems, I lost 105 lbs. of fat with hypnosis. It was easy and fun. This is my true story.

By Pat Carley: I came into the world at five pounds. I was overweight from there.

With a name like Pat, which rhymes with fat, I was the brunt of cruel jokes. I had no friends. Never developed self-esteem. Confidence was zero. I would gaze in the mirror, tears in my eyes, asking, "Why me? Why am I so fat? Why can't I be normal?"

The Diet Rollercoaster

I went on every crazy weight loss scheme. Tried the grapefruit, egg special soup, all protein, all vegetable, only starch, high fiber, and all fruit diets. Spent a fortune on tasteless prepackaged food. Went to support groups. Starved on protein shakes. I
