Proudly welcomes Dyson to our Team of Fabulous Stylists

Dyson started his hairdressing career in London, England.

Working at various salons and schools for the Vidal Sassoon
organization, both in Europe and North America. Dyson's work has been displayed in international trade and consumer magazines.

He is a sought after teacher and stylist, updating the skills of hairdressers throughout Canada and the U.S.A. The ability to work with many different textures and lengths of hair has always been Dyson's key to building successful relationships with clients.

"Everybody has the right to a beautiful haircut" is his simple philosophy. "I have a passion for making people look and feel wonderful." He is delighted to bring his

Region's transit project seeks private help

York Region's ambitious, billion-dollar rapid transit project in the Hwy. 7 corridor continues to roll along, with the issuance of a request for proposals from potential private sector partners.

Last Thursday, regional council approved the RFP and it was made public Friday.

Five high-powered consortia, headed by the likes of Bombardier, Hydro One and the Royal Bank of Canada, will bid on the project, which will see the private sector joining forces with the region to design, build and operate a rapid transit system.

The system, which will serve Markham, Richmond Hill and Vaughan, will also link up with public transit systems in Toronto, as well as Durham and Peel regions.

The companies have five weeks to submit their proposals; it is hoped a final selection will be made public this spring.

The region is fast-tracking the project to take advantage of provincial funding for transit development, regional chairperson Bill Fisch said.
