Markham Stouffville Hospital president and CEO Jim MacLean had to lie down — in jest — after accepting a $2-million donation Wednesday from the hospital's foundation. The money, which purchased medical equipment — including the defibrillator/pacer in photo — over the last year, was donated to the foundation by clubs, corporations, foundations and private donors in Markham and Stouffville. Also taking part in the presentation were: hospital board chair Jeffrey Wayne (left); Dennis Cline, chair of the hospital foundation and Gina Rosen, president of the hospital foundation.
