Gardeners zapped by cold spring temperatures

BY CHRISSE O'BRIEN
Staff Writer

Unseasonably cool temperatures this spring have affected more than just tan-lines and cottage openings.

Environment Canada says the current weather patterns were most likely a surprise to most York Region gardeners.

"We had the mildest winter on record," said senior climatologist David Phillips. "(So) the farthest thing from people's minds was a cold spring."

According to Mr. Phillips, the average temperature for Victoria Day weekend, May 19-21 was -1 degree celsius. That's the coldest since 1967 when the temperature bottomed out at a toasty -0.5 degrees.

"There has never been a colder May 20 than this year," he said.

As a result, business was down for many greenhouses — a major disappointment, since that weekend is usually one of their biggest of the season. For
