

Don't give criminals the edge: cop

press conference and he's not familiar with Det.-Sgt. Young's statements.

But he said it's wrong for the media to highlight investigation techniques used by police because it gives criminals an advantage.

"It's tough enough to get people behind bars," he said.

In 1998 the Waterloo

Regional Police intentionally gave false information to Crime Stoppers.

As a result the Kitchener-Waterloo Record stopped publishing Crime Stoppers for a short period of time in March and only reinstated it in April with restrictions on the types of Crime Stoppers stories they run.

Bob Cox, a news editor at the Globe and Mail, said the media is used to police omitting details but cases of deliberately giving misleading information are rare.

He said handing out deceptive information to the media could harm the police's credibility with the public.

"There could be an erosion of the public's trust (of police)," he said. "The public always believes the police officer."

FIGHT OVER 100 DISEASES WITH ONE DONATION

These are just a few of the over 100 liver-related illnesses that threaten the lives of more than 2 million Canadian men, women and children. For 25 years now, the Canadian Liver Foundation has been leading the fight against liver disease and to continue, we need your help.

One simple act of kindness can go so very far.
