Brother Andre band, choir do flood concerts

BY DAVID ANDERSON
Special

The music competition was cancelled, but two groups from Markham's Brother Andre Catholic High School are still going abroad in tribute to the victims of flooding in Europe.

Jennifer Attenborough, instrumental music director at the school, said the cancellation — because of massive flooding last month in Germany and the Czech Republic — didn't stop plans from moving forward for the 50 members of the senior concert band (which she oversees) and concert choir, directed by Susan Arena.

The trip has been converted into a benefit concert tour for flood survivors, many of whom lost their homes to rising waters.

A total of $7,000 was raised for the trip, through car washes in July and August and help from local businesses like the Fox and Fiddle.

Concerts will be held in Grimma, Germany between Sept. 13 and 15.

 The groups leave Monday and return Sept. 17.

CORRECTION

An incorrect headline was published on a story in our Aug. 24 edition about possible health problems in the Newmarket courthouse.

The headline should have read Sickness might be imaginary, court told. The Economist & Sun/Tribune regrets the error.
