

Passengers could pay for new airport in Pickering/E. Markham

BY MIKE ADLER
Staff Writer

Improvement fees charged to passengers could be used to build a major airport at Pickering, according to a "preliminary business model" released last week.

A $10-a-head charge similar to one the Greater Toronto Airports Authority started levying at Toronto's Lester B. Pearson International last June, can cover 28.8 to 47.5 per cent of a Pickering airport's capital costs, which could amount to $2.1 billion, says the report presented to the GTAA and an advisory group of politicians and residents.

It predicts an airport on the federal government's vast holdings in north Pickering and east Markham could serve as many as 9.7 million passengers by 2032.

Three scenarios were presented in which a Pickering airport opens as Markham's Buttonville Airport closes in 2012 and grows from a general aviation airfield to one with commercial air traffic and three runways. The GTAA, financing a $4.4-billion expansion of Pearson, is not saying which scenario they find most likely or desirable.

"This was solely done as a financial forecasting exercise," spokesperson Peter Gregg said this week, adding the GTAA, over the next eight to 12 months, will plan a proposed airport's location, layout, and potential impacts before starting an environmental assessment which will take years to complete.

But Mr. Gregg suggested last week's findings show an airport is probably needed and "probably does make economic sense."

WAYNE EMMERSON: Mayor of Whitchurch-Stouffville is on advisory committee for planned airport.

Opponents of the airport disagreed, arguing the business case is inadequate.

Federal Transport Minister David Collenette has promised an airport would not be built if it's not profitable, "and this obviously is not profitable," charged Stephen Frederick, president of Voters Organized to Cancel the Airport Lands, or VOCAL.

Mr. Frederick also accused the GTAA of exaggerating future demand for air travel.

Forecasts for the three scenarios assume air travel in the Greater Toronto Area will grow 3.6 per cent a year cumulatively between 2001 (a year which saw traffic decrease at Pearson) and 2015, before it falls to 2.5 or less.

"It's blatant statistical manipulation," Mr. Frederick said. "They front-end-loaded the growth in the early years, to substantiate the need for an airport."

Mr. Gregg, however, said the forecasts are "based on rigorous statistical analysis." He added a Pickering airport would have to pay for its operations—but eventually, not immediately. "It's not like we're going by a dictated date when it has to pay for itself."

He acknowledged the business plan does not include any mention the GTAA would pay Transport Canada rent for using the land.

Whitchurch-Stouffville Mayor Wayne Emmerson, an advisory group member, wasn't worried about the forecasts. "They took a conservative approach and I don't think they're too far off," he said.

Transport Canada officials are coming to discuss the airport at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Whitchurch-Stouffville's council chambers. The GTAA will host open houses, from 4 to 8 p.m., on Oct. 30 at Cedar Grove Community Centre in Markham and on Nov. 7 at Latcham Hall in Stouffville.

In the 1970s, the federal government expropriated 18,500 acres in Markham, Pickering and Uxbridge for what it believed would be Toronto's second international airport, a plan shelved in 1975.

"This airport was uneconomical in the 1970s, it's uneconomical today and it won't fly 10 years from now," said Jim Robb, a spokesperson for the Rouge Duffins Greenspace Coalition seeking to stop development on the federal lands and on most of the provincially-owned areas to the south.

Some of the 500 attending a rally in Pickering last weekend heard Ontario Finance Minister Janet Ecker express support for the coalition's goal of "linking the lake to the moraine" through both the provincial and federal areas, collectively known to some as Toronto's Green Door. "I want to work with you to see if we can make that happen," she said.

Ontario's Tory government is preparing to hand some of the lands, called Seaton, to developers, and in recent years has sold thousands of acres in Markham and Pickering. Around 5,000 acres in Pickering were sold with easements blocking development but this year

Pickering decided to study development in the area, once part of an agricultural preserve that included 2,500 still-unsold acres in Markham.

Mr. Robb and other preservationists who have reviewed land records for Pickering say they believe most of the preserve lands sold there are in the hands of developers.

Ms Ecker said her position is that the protective easements in Pickering must stay.

The Rouge Duffins group wants the unsold parcels on the Markham side added to Rouge Park.

Absolutely Clean

Personalized Housekeeping &
Home Organization...

Serving
Markham,
Stouffville &
Surrounding Areas
Since 1996

Helping busy people enjoy an
"Absolutely Clean" home!

(905) 642-0220

BUTTONVILLE FAIRWAYS

Major Mac. & McCowan

DRIVING RANGE NOW OPEN

ALL GRASS TEES

For information call ~ 905-472-4235

Thursday
November 21
2002

8:30 pm
Markham Theatre
171 Town Centre Blvd.

A Benefit Performance in Support of Our Community

MARKHAM STOUFFVILLE HOSPITAL FOUNDATION
BODY & SOUL
MARKHAM THEATRE FOR PERFORMING ARTS

Three acts of amazing entertainment, a catered reception... and an opportunity to support Markham-Stouffville
Hospital Foundation and Markham Theatre!

THE NYLONS

smooth harmonies

SHOW & RECEPTION

$75.00

MULTI-COURSE DINNER & WINE

Hilton Suites Toronto/Markham 5:30 pm

followed by SHOW & RECEPTION $175.00

humour

Corporate tables are available for $2,500* which includes 10 dinner/show tickets,
priority seating and recognition in the event program.

For information, please call
Lesley Dominico at (905) 946-8072 or Kathy Little at (905) 472-7395

acrobatics
and magic

To order tickets,
call Markham Theatre at
(905) 305-SHOW (7469)

MARKHAM

THEATRE

ECONOMIST & SUN

Hilton Suites

LOOKING FOR EXTREME ADVENTURE?

EXTREME SPORTS SHOW
Oct. 26th 12 P.M. - 9 P.M. Oct. 27th 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
METRO EAST TRADE CENTRE, BROCK RD., PICKERING
$4.00 Admission

SKI & Snowboard Swap

Hosted by Canadian Ski Patrol

- ✓ TONS OF EXCITING VENDORS
- ✓ INCREDIBLE SEMINARS
- ✓ LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

- ✓ Fitness memberships from Extreme Fitness
- ✓ Race car lessons from Bridgestone Firestone Racing Academy
- ✓ Scuba training course by Scuba 2000

SPONSORED BY:

EXTREME
FITNESS

BRIDGESTONE
RACING ACADEMY

Canadian Skule Patrol
Petroleum Products Corp.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL: 905-426-4676 EXT. 227
www.durhamregion.com