HERE'S YOUR WAY TO... HELP A CHILD

In-School Mentoring - Only 1 Hour Per Week During School Hours

"Those days Jenny is with her mentor, she is relaxed, happy and at peace with the world, willing to be helpful to others. This program is fantastic!"
Ashton Meadows - Teacher

"Johnny speaks very highly of his mentor and is always talking about him to everyone. His self-esteem has increased remarkably since the mentoring began"
An Appreciative Mother

Melissa's Story
Melissa is 8 years old. She wants to play with the older children and fit in but she is a painfully shy little girl. Melissa responds very well to her teacher and tries very hard to please her. As she has seen how children in the program benefit from mentoring, her teacher is convinced that a mentor would help Melissa to build confidence and improve her social skills. "It's heartbreaking to see such a sweet little girl retreat into her own little world, interacting minimally with the older children. She needs a mentor." Yes, Melissa does need a mentor and so do many other children who would benefit greatly from only one hour per week with a positive adult friend.

Can you spare an hour a week during school hours to help our children?
