Lots to do at this year's Applefest

There might be folks out there who don't like apples, but Markham Museum officials think they'll still have a good time at this year's annual Applefest.

Weather permitting, a hot air balloon will be one of the many attractions at the day-long event, which takes place 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday at the museum on the west side of Hwy. 48 north of the 16th Avenue.

As one of the sponsors, Enbridge will have an activity tent with face painting, tattoos and fun things for kids.

There will also be wagon rides, tales spun by story teller Catherine Kentridge, pony rides and apple products for sale. This year, the museum is anticipating attendance of more than 3,000.

Cost is $2 per person older than 2, as well as nominal charges for some activities and food.

Event coordinator Tracy Johnston said for those unable to attend the event, there will be a sale Friday afternoon of apple products, (apple butter and cider) from 1 to 6 pm.
