

Firefighter calendar a big success

BY ROY GREEN
Staff Writer

York Region firefighters have taken the beefcake out of firefighter calendars.

"From the beginning, we wanted our calendar to be more professional than some of the other calendars out there," said Shaun Mitchell of Central York Fire Department. "Instead of guys with their shirts off, we have pictures showing rescues and some are with children. We're getting a very positive feedback."

The 2003 Fire Fighters of York

Region calendar is now available at Dominion Stores, National Bank locations, Shoppers Drug Mart and a number of restaurants in the region.

Mr. Mitchell said more than 25 firemen auditioned for a select panel of judges — and about 1,000 cheering fans — last August in Vaughan, before 13 were selected to pose for the calendar.

"There are five guys from Central York, two from Vaughan, two from Richmond Hill, three from Markham and one from Whitchurch-Stouffville," he said.

With 10,000 copies printed, firefighters hope to raise $200,000, half of which will go to the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation of York Region and the rest to the region's three hospitals.

"The greatest part about the project is that we've been able to help the community in more ways than we ever expected," said Scott Daniels of the Markham Fire Department.

"Our calendar boys have already participated in the annual Grandma's Run to raise funds for the Markham Foundation, and events for the United Way of York Region."
