Christmas dinner short on cash

BY KRISTIN MACKEY
Special

Organizers of the eighth annual Christmas Day Dinner are asking for financial support from the Whitchurch-Stouffville community.

"We need more donations," said co-organizer David Knight.

In the past, event planners depended on people and businesses in the community to donate food or money to the cause.

"Some businesses can't give as much as before," said Mr. Knight. "We are buying more stuff instead of relying on food donations."

Last year's dinner cost $6,600 which included gifts, dish rentals and food. More than 475 people attended and another 175 meals were sent out to people in the community.

This year, organizers are aiming for 500 participants at Christmas dinner and 200 meals to be delivered to those who cannot attend.

The free event is to be held at the Stouffville Country Market for anyone new to the community, away from family or alone on Christmas Day starting at 11 a.m.

The event is the brainchild of market owner Norm Clements.

For more information or to give a donation, call 905-852-3534.

Last call for lights contest

More than $300 in cash prizes is up for grabs. The contest is sponsored by the Lions Club of Stouffville, the Stouffville Sun and Tribune and Noma Cable Tech.
