Visit to Toronto prepares students for Serbian trek

By Hannelore Volpe
Stouffville Sun

PEOPLE

Four Stouffville District Secondary School students are traveling to Serbia later this week to help to distribute food, warm clothing and basic toiletries to people suffering the aftermath of years of war.

They're part of a group of 10 Stouffville Pentecostal Church members who will be staying in Nis, a city about four hours south of Belgrade by car, from March 8 to 18.

The city, which is the oldest in Europe, currently has a per capita income of about $50.

The SOS (Stouffville Outreach to Serbia) team will also work with local churches and community groups, to strengthen indigenous programs.

They'll be working mainly with Gypsies and Serbian nationals, but "we will be flexible and try and meet as many people as we can," said the church's pastor, Mike Anthony.

The trip is has been arranged through Next Level International, an agency which co-ordinates short-term mission trips with churches.

"Our biggest concern is whether war breaks out with Iraq," the pastor said. To prepare the six teenagers and four adults for the grinding poverty they'll encounter, Pastor Anthony has taken them to downtown Toronto to hand out food and warm clothing to some of the city's homeless.

"This is the third of our humanitarian efforts," Pastor Anthony said. Church members earlier spent a week in Ontario's Algonquin area to work with young people there.

The second phase of the effort was a series of 10 SOS training seminars.

Members of the church have raised around $13,000 to help defray the costs of the trip, an amount matched by the church itself.

Bill Dunbar, Nancy Clark, Kristina Devries and Pastor Anthony will be accompanied on the trip by SDSS students Daniel Clarke, David Montesano, Nicole Mashinter and Jared Mashinter as well as students Stephen Glover from Whitefield Christian School and Tom Sawyer from Yorkland Christian School in Toronto.
