It's time to Think Spring!

Despite the rainy, blustery weather today, it's time to think spring. Greenhouses and gardening equipment and supply locations are fully expecting gardeners to be out looking for supplies this Easter weekend. Take advantage of the weather — Think Spring!

Also, in more exciting news for Whitchurch-Stouffville, Tempest In A Teapot will open their doors on May 3. Don't miss another exciting grand opening on the Main Street of Whitchurch-Stouffville.

And, it's also a good time for a new look — like a new hairstyle and also it's time to get your vehicle ready for a new season!

Cecelta's specializes in electro-dermal screening

An interview with your liver, pancreas and heart may be long overdue.

A technique, using a computer to look inside the body to check the health of your organs for such enemies as parasites, viruses, bacteria and environmental pollutants is now available in downtown Stouffville.

Wellness consultant Cecelta Bryniawsky has opened her business, which specializes in electro-dermal screening.

Cecelta's is located next door to the recently opened Healing Force on the south side of Main Street.

Using the new system, the health of organs can be seen the computer screen. Electro-dermal screening measures the electron flow or energy along numerous pathways known as meridians in the body. "These measurements are obtained through probes placed at acupuncture points mainly on the hands and feet," explained Ms. Bryniawsky. While a whole body review takes two hours, the technique to assess one organ takes about 15 minute and is "quite comfortable," said the consultant.

"Some feel a little tingling. Most don't," said the consultant. "The process is non-invasive to the skin. It simply allows the technician to carry out an interview with the body's organs and tissues, showing much about the basic function of those areas."

The computer immediately shows how much stress an organ is under and can aid the technician in determining what can be helpful in eliminating the imbalance if there is one.

"It also can indicate the presence of parasites, viruses, bacteria, yeast and even environmental pollutants," said Ms. Bryniawsky.

A parasite is an organism that derives its food, nutrition and shelter by living in or on another organism. Humans can be a host to more than 100 different types of parasites. Most people think that a parasite infection is uncommon, especially in North America, explained the
