Police blitz auction vehicles again

BY JOAN RANSBERRY

Police and Whitchurch-Stouffville bylaw enforcement officers bagged 49 vehicles in a two-hour ticket and tow blitz Tuesday morning on a section of Hwy. 48 and along Cherry Street north of Ballantrae.

A total of 19 vehicles were towed, while 30 tickets were handed out to people attending the twice-monthly auction at Impact Auto on Hwy. 48, said Keith Saunders, Whitchurch-Stouffville's bylaw enforcement officer.

For most of the winter and early spring, motorist attending the automotive auction have been parking illegally and posing a safety threat, according to residents and town officials.

"It's an accident waiting to happen," Mr. Saunders said. "Cars and trucks park far too close to intersections and too close to people's driveways. We put the cones up and they're ignored."

The municipality, concerned for public safety, appealed to both York Regional Police and Ontario Provincial Police for help.

Officials of Impact Auto have co-operated with the town, said Mr. Saunders. "Before the auction starts, the owner of Impact Auto announces vehicles, parked illegally, will be towed away," Mr. Saunders said. "He keeps warning them."
