Bob Wood, chairperson of the Road Watch Committee and son Andrew, 11, monitor drivers along Ninth Line, south of Bloomington Road, with a radar unit. The group needs more volunteers.

Speeding drivers targeted today

Road Watch is on the road again in Whitchurch-Stouffville.

This weekend, residents can find out how they can help the Road Watch program reduce careless and dangerous driving on local roads.

Volunteers will be cooking hotdogs and hamburgers in front of Sobey's in Stouffville to raise funds for the program and share information. They'll be there from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

During Road Watch Week from May 5 to 12, another session of the popular 55 Alive older drivers' skills refresher course was launched at the Stouffville Legion.

Road Watch volunteers have taken their traveling radar unit to several traffic hot spots around town. Today it will be stationed on Main Street near the A & P to tell motorists exactly how fast they're going.

"Do something about dangerous driving and report it," chairperson Bob Wood said of the group's mission.

Road Watch is looking for more volunteers to run a variety of programs. It is a member of York Region's Road Watch program. For more information call 905-642-0187.
