Thomas 'on quest' to win Stanley

Anaheim's 10-year existence in the NHL that it advanced this far in the post-season. It's also the first conference final appearance for the Wild in its three-year existence.

"Surreal is an understatement," said Thomas, after the Ducks eliminated the Stars. "Beating Detroit (in the first round in four straight) was an accomplishment. Now, to beat the Stars, it's amazing."

Thomas had just four goals prior to being dealt to the Mighty Ducks. But upon arriving in southern California — where he was reunited with former Markham Waxers teammate Adam Oates — the veteran right-winger appeared to be rejuvenated with 10 goals and three assists in 12 games.

Through the first two rounds of the post-season, Thomas contributed two goals and four assists.

Launching his NHL career in 1984 with the Maple Leafs, Thomas says there's no special reason why he's producing so well with the Mighty

Ducks. But he says receiving more ice time and playing with skilled players certainly helps.

While Thomas hasn't been on a regular line with Oates, whom he played with on the Waxers during the 1980-81 and 1981-82 campaigns, the two have been on the ice together during power-plays.

"I had a chance to play on the power play and get a regular shift with some talented players. In my first game against Chicago I got two goals," he said in an interview.

While still having a soft spot for Toronto, Thomas doesn't harbour any bad feelings toward the Maple Leafs.

"I still feel I should be playing in Toronto, but those things aren't that difficult to get over.

"I really cherish what's going on now. It's a special time, especially if you haven't won a Stanley Cup. I think this team has the ability to do it," Thomas said.

"I love this game and I want to keep playing. I haven't won the cup yet. That's my quest."
