

Four candidates already in Ward 6 for November election time physiotherapist and mother of two lobbied to have the pool-library complex built in its present location in Memorial Park. "I was a great supporter of the pool," she noted. "It was something the community needed to have."

Soon to retire as a criminal courtroom clerk with the Ministry of the Attorney General, Mr. Craig, 52, stresses he will be in a position to treat the position on council as "a full-time job." A resident of Stouffville for 12 years, he has been "pro-active in the community" since 1995. Mr. Craig's community involvement includes work on Stouffville's Strawberry Festival committee, Road Watch committee and library board.

"My interest is to represent the public and to consider the well-being and interest of our municipality," Mr. Craig said. "To do this, we need to ensure accountability of our municipality by maintaining the financial integrity of our communities. We need to ensure that administrative practices and procedures are in place to implement the decisions on council."

LOCAL INVOLVEMENT

Mr. Hargrave, 44, knows the municipality. The Ward 6 candidate grew up in Dickson Hill and Ballantrae and is a resident of Lori Avenue. "Stouffville is growing in leaps and bounds," Mr. Hargrave said. "We have to try to keep the integrity so the town will grow in the right direction." A career in sales and marketing will ready him for the work on local council, Mr. Hargrave maintains. Married to Debbie, the couple have three children, all attending local schools.

Jim Hobbs, 57, said he has contemplated seeking a spot on council for the past two decades. "I've been thinking about it off and on. I'm now in a position to do it," the Stouffville Street resident said.

Since moving to Stouffville 24 years ago, he has been a community volunteer, serving in a number of capacities. He helped start the York-Durham Heritage Railway tourist train. As a consultant involved in economic development, Mr. Hobbs was also a key player with the Stouffville Vision Fund, which helped the town hire a full-time economic development officer.

"We have to look at where we live and where we are going to have to live in the future," said the candidate. Married to Marian, the couple have three grown children.

Preston Lake resident Clyde Smith, 52, is hoping his years of volunteering in the community and his interest in the environment will translate into a win in Ward 3. The western ward was left vacant when Councillor Peter Dobrich announced he was retiring.

Mr. Smith has been president of the environmental group Pride and Preston Lake (PPL) for the past four years, helping develop programs to restore the lake's shoreline.

"I care very much about the current vision of Whitchurch-Stouffville as the country close to the city," said Mr. Smith.

A financial planner with a national company, Mr. Smith teaches retirement planning to people going through career transitions.

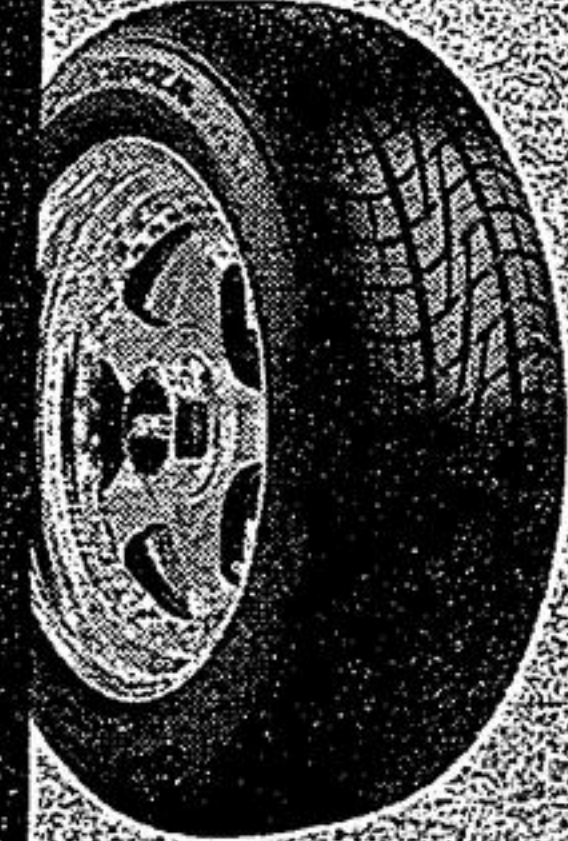

Three weeks ago, retired school teacher Ken Ferdinands, 57, filed candidate papers, seeking election in Ward 1, left vacant when Mr. Pliakes entered the mayor's race. A resident of Whitchurch-Stouffville for more than 25 years, he said he understands concerns in the ward.
