National award for Glad Park class

A Grade 7 class from Glad Park Public School is in downtown Toronto today to receive the National Student Innovation Award for Enterprising Spirit.

The award was presented at First Canadian Place by The Learning Partnership in association with the BMO Financial Group. The Learning Partnership is an entrepreneurship venture sponsored by the private business sector in co-operation with local school boards.

The Glad Park students were recognized for their work in providing all the management, logistical and fundraising support for Glad Park's spring play Follow That Rabbit, based on the Alice in Wonderland stories.

From October, Learning Partner Jennifer Moore from BMO visited the school once or more each month to work with the youngsters on fundraising, ticket sales, running the concession stands during the play and designing the advertising campaign for the play.

More than 80 students from grades 4 to 8 were in the well-received May performances of Follow That Rabbit.

'SHARE IN LIMELIGHT'

"There were two separate casts to allow as many students as possible to share in the limelight," noted Mrs. Stover. The show's lead actors were Jaymi Schell in Grade 5 and Jamie Jackson in Grade 6, who played Alice. The White Rabbit was portrayed by Grade 7 student Morgan Radbourne and Grade 5 student Karen McLellan. Teachers Melissa King and Debbie Partch co-directed the play.

Calling the Learning Partnership project an opportunity, Mrs. Stover lauded her 23 Grade 7 students for their hard work and initiative.

Walk of life
