Entertainment, prizes at tonight's Madness

Downtown Stouffville is putting out the welcome mat for everyone who wants to shop, enjoy music, entertainment and freebies at tonight's Moonlight Madness.

The Business Improvement Area event runs from 7 to 10 p.m. Those brave enough to wear pyjamas, bathrobes and furry slippers to Moonlight Madness will receive a prize, the BIA's Ruth LeBlanc said.

Downtown merchants are offering a variety of specials throughout the evening. One vendor will have a huge selection of clothing for teens and adults for sale.

Non-stop entertainment at the Clock Tower, in the heart of downtown includes performances by dancers from K & K Dreamz, Elvis impersonator Randy Knight and "200 Feet Under", an all-girl group which won this year's Battle of the Bands at Stouffville District Secondary School.

Classic cars will add to the ambiance and Carleton the Clown will make an appearance.
