Isabel, rain get into arena

Mother Nature hasn't exactly extended a helping hand in replacing the new roof at the Stouffville Arena. Recent wind-driven rains, including those from Hurricane Isabel, have caused leaking problems, hampering the ongoing re-construction of the roof.

However, emergency repairs have now been made and the job is nearing completion, said Kelly Batt, manager of facilities for the Department of Leisure Services.

NOW WATER TIGHT

"The roof surface is now water tight," said Mr. Batt.

Construction of the $450,000 roof resulted in a facility shut down earlier in the summer. "The arena was back in operation by mid August," Mr. Batt said.

Victor Apa & Associates Inc. Opens New Office In Markham
