Choose your Canada.

The Liberal Government's Proven Economic Leadership...

Promised:

- In 1993, then Finance Minister Paul Martin promised to get rid of the $42 billion a year Conservative deficit.
- In 1996-97, he promised to put the ailing Canada Pension Plan back on to a sound financial footing.
- In 2000, he said he would cut the national debt.
- Throughout, he has promised to strengthen Canada's economy.
- In 2000, Paul Martin initiated tax cuts of $100 billion under a five-year plan. This tax cut is well on track.
- In 2004, he promised to have a surplus of $40 billion over the next five years, in addition to spending $26 billion on improving life for Canadians.

Delivered:

- He delivered seven consecutive years of deficit-free budgets. No other industrial nation has done this, not even for this year.
- Benefits are now guaranteed to start at age 65. By comparison, the US had to raise the age to 67.
- He has trimmed $52 billion from the debt since then.
- Since 2000, Canada's economy has not gone into recession, while the US economy did.

Healthcare – A Fix for a Generation

- Ten year increased funding to allow the provinces to plan effectively
- Increased standards of performance in order to receive this additional funding – i.e. shorter waiting times for heart, cancer and cataract operations, diagnostic imaging and joint replacement.
- Free at-home post-procedural care – including free prescription medicine, palliative and mental health care.
- Increase in the number of doctors – more spaces for medical students, as well as residency spots for foreign trained and new immigrant doctors.
- A national pharmaceutical strategy by 2006, designed to keep prescription drugs affordable for all.

Please support Lui and Team Martin to continue these improvements for Canadians!
