

Friends staging Joseph at theatre for cancer patient

BY SIMONE JOSEPH
Staff Writer

Before Jason Northway started chemotherapy in May, he threw a party.

Friends brought food and the 24-year-old shaved his head, knowing he would lose clumps of it anyway. Mr. Northway was diagnosed with adult hodgkins lymphoma, a form of cancer, at the end of April and started chemotherapy about a month later.

His friend Jennifer Norton admires the tenacity with which he has battled the cancer.

"He's really strong. Probably stronger than he should be... He's just trying to keep his head up because he knows if he doesn't, he'll crash."

Another friend, Todd Martin, wanted to help him and came up with the idea of directing the musical Joseph with the proceeds going to Mr. Northway.

"I thought that it was the perfect show to put on while getting the community involved in helping Jason. Someone who has been diagnosed with any form of cancer will struggle not only with pain, nausea, a weakened immune system and fear of death, but with the struggle to pay bills and acquire needed medication and treatment," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Northway designed the show's logo and helped design the programs.

Ms Norton is the show's project manager and Mr. Martin is directing the play, which includes a cast of about 30. They are hoping to raise between $3,000 and $5,000.

"The amount of time and effort we have put into this, it's unbelievable," Ms Norton said. "It's being able to do something to show we care."

This production of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat will be performed at Markham Theatre Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. For tickets, call Markham Theatre at 905-305-SHOW.
