

Recreation complex has indoor pool, tennis court

A new recreation centre for residents of the Ballantrae Golf and Country Club opened its doors Sept. 18.

Around 1,100 residents and guests, as well as MP Lui Temelkovski, Whitchurch-Stouffville Mayor Sue Sherban and councillors, were on hand for the festivities.

The 18,000-square-foot, one-storey building was tailored with the residents' requests in mind and took close to a year to complete. It includes an indoor swimming pool, exercise room, billiards room, a party room to accommodate over 200 people, a computer room and an outdoor tennis court.

The Schickedanz Bros. Ltd. development currently has around 500 homes. There will be 900 residences when construction is complete.

The community has won a number of awards for its development of detached bungalows surrounding a championship public 18-hole golf course.

They include most outstanding adult lifestyle project in Ontario from the Ontario Home Builders Association and the best lifestyle community in the province from the Urban Development Institute, an association of the builders in the GTA. Schickedanz Bros. Ltd. was founded in the early 1950s.

The first homeowners moved into the gated adult lifestyle community more than three years ago.
