

BILL ROBERTS

The photograph at left was made at the Southlake Drive for Cancer fundraiser in October while waiting for the event to begin. The riders warming up their horses caught my eye and I framed them between fence rails. Feature photography is about capturing moments such as the dancers performing at Richmond Hill Heritage Day. It allows local residents to be famous for a day.

STEVE SOMERVILLE

There are magic moments in photography when several elements that make a strong visual come together. In the photograph of the hockey player, they include dramatic lighting, a reflection of that lighting on the ice, a deep shadow and a solitary moment in time. It is also symbolic of the game we love so much. The strongest element in the photograph of Georgios Pappas is the purity of this child's eyes, mirroring the shade of blue in the Greek national flag. The shot was made as the Olympic Games began in Athens.

