Healthy lawns - why they matter

(NC)-Lawns, turf and large, open green spaces, such as, parks, golf courses and sports fields are critical to our environment - especially in urban areas. They contribute to our quality of life in many important ways:

- Cleaning the air by neutralizing pollutants and trapping dirt, dust and other airborne particles
- Keeping us cool - the front lawns of eight average homes have the cooling-effect of 70 tons of air conditioning

- the equivalent of central air for 23 average-sized homes!

- Reducing noise levels by 20 to 30 per cent - in cities
- Diminishing soil erosion and flooding by absorbing rainwater

- Recharging our groundwater supply by reducing run-off to impermeable surfaces, such as roads, sidewalks, parking lots and patios.

Remember the healthier the lawn, the bigger the pay-off! The lawn care experts at Scotts Canada offer homeowners a number of tips to help keep their lawns healthy this season:

Seeding

- prepare the soil properly and keep seed moist after planting
- buy quality seed, such as Scotts Pure Premium for a quick germinating, thicker, weed-free lawn. Cheaper brands and no-name products often contain weeds.

Fertilizing

- select a quality fertilizer and read package labels noting type, application timing and proper usage - usually one application in Spring and another in Fall is sufficient
- choose slow nitrogen release fertilizers for consistent, controlled feeding that promotes strong root development

Mowing

- keep mower blades sharp and don't cut too short - never cut more than 1/3 the length of the grass blades in a single mowing
- mowing once a week is usually sufficient

Watering

- allow grass cuttings, if not too heavy, to remain on the lawn and decompose, providing valuable nutrients for your lawn
- watering in the morning is ideal before the sun overheats your lawn; watering after dusk promotes fungus
- soak well every 3-4 days for 30-40 minutes rather than a daily sprinkling to promote deeper roots and a more drought resistant lawn

- increase watering if you note a silvery blue tinge to the grass or if the grass doesn't spring back when you walk across it.
