

Students, town benefit from lifesaving course at pool

BY JIM THOMAS
Correspondent

An eight-week lifesaving course conducted at the Lebovic Leisure Centre last fall is proving beneficial for the participants and the town.

Five graduates are now employed at the centre. A sixth is working elsewhere.

Classes included first aid, C.P.R., instructors, national lifeguard services, automated external defibrillator, bronze medallion and bronze cross. The instructor was Jennifer Wirch of Markham, a student attending Queen's University in Kingston and a fitness staff employee.

"She was wonderful," Micole Ongman, program and aquatic supervisor said, "her wealth of knowledge allowed her to teach all seven courses."

The program co-ordinator was Stacey Stevens. For everyone involved it was a career change, Ongman explained.

It marked the first time the course had been offered here. A second class is planned this fall.

"We were able to obtain some fabulous staff," Ongman said.

Five of the six enrollees are now town pool instructor and guards.

Lifesaving certification was awarded to Kathy Beckett, Susan Wannop, Gordon Carder, Marnie McCormick and Maria Sabina.

Matthews' timely homer helps Storm mites salvage 12-12 tie

SPORTS DIGEST

A two-run homer by Edward Matthews in the fourth and final inning enabled the Stouffville Storm mite boys to earn a 12-12 tie against host Newmarket in York Durham Softball League action Monday.

Earlier in the contest, Matthews lashed out two others hits, including a three-run double.

On the night, he was credited with five RBIs.

The contest was halted due to cold weather.

Rebounding from an 8-1 loss to Bradford in its opening game, the Storm resumes league play tonight when they play the Oshawa Stingers at Durham College at 6:30 p.m.

Worden cards fifth-place finish

Gavin Worden carded a two-round total of 181 to earn a fifth-place finish in last weekend's Maple Leaf Junior Tour golf event at Hidden Lakes Golf Club in Burlington.

Entered in the 13 and under division, the 13-year-old Stouffville resident fired a first-day 16-over 87 and a 94 on the second day.

Brent McKenzie, 13, of Cambridge won the age group class with a 160 (80-80).
