Concrete pavers...

annually, however, in North America it is not even one quarter metres squared per person. In the Netherlands most of the streets and sidewalks are pavers. Toronto, Ontario and Dayton, Ohio are two of many cities that have used concrete pavers in historic neighborhoods to enhance the area's image and support the investment by residents in their homes.

The ability to produce pavers in a wide variety of shapes and colours makes it possible to use them in colourful, attention-grabbing ways that can add to the character of a home. For example, Overtown, Florida created an urban park that used pavers in patterns and colours taken from Kente Cloth, a type of weaving from North Africa.

To learn more about using concrete pavers in a patio or driveway and see idea photos, visit the Web site of the Interlocking Concrete Pavement Institute at www.icpi.org.

Pavers are manufactured in various shapes, sizes, textures and colours. An important benefit of pavers is that they can be removed and reinstalled, which reduces future service interruptions and keeps replacement costs down.
