Artist attends tonight's opening

Paintings made to resemble bruised flesh and other textures are featured in the Latham Gallery's latest exhibition. Artist David McClyment will be present at the opening reception at 7:30 tonight to meet gallery-goers and talk about the show he calls Before & After.

Working on wood panels, Mr. McClyment paints, gouges, stencils, sands and scrapes the surface of the wood to create his paintings. The result is a worn surface that appears "like bruised flesh", the artist says.

Presented in pairs, each work captures flashes of stories reflecting the disjointed way people receive information.

The imagery of the series is loosely based on the depiction of events in the news, literature, advertising and legends. One pair of works, titled Two Legs Better, shows stencils of two pigs dressed in human clothing standing on two legs — a reference to George Orwell's Animal Farm.

At the opening reception, Mr. McClyment's son, Jaimie, will play fiddle. The exhibition continues until Aug. 14.

The gallery, at 6240 Main St. in downtown Stouffville, is open Tuesday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. during the summer.
