Artist reveals technique as show closes

Before Wendy Wallace's exhibition TOPO, whose symbols and scenes focus on Stouffville, closes Nov. 19 at Latcham Gallery, residents have a chance to learn her technique of working images onto copper sheets.

The Oshawa artist's sculptural paintings depict scenes from around Stouffville, exploring the landscape, encroaching development and particularly the role of Duffins Creek.

From 10 a.m. to noon Nov. 19, the artist will lead a workshop in Latcham Gallery for ages 11 and older.

Participants will learn her technique of working on copper sheets, punching an image into the metal and painting it. Participants can take home the original work of art created during the workshop.

Ms Wallace has taught numerous workshops to children and adults throughout the province.

Registration is required. Call 905-640-8954. Cost is $20 per person. Ms Wallace will be at the closing event at the Latcham Gallery Nov. 19 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Craft workshop

museum members, including all materials and lunch. Pre-registration is required.
