Katrina song debuts in Texas tonight

BY HANNELORE VOLPE
Staff Writer

Musselman's Lake resident Don Quarles wrote his latest song "Search for Love" to help other performers and those in the entertainment industry who suffered devastating losses during Hurricane Katrina and other disasters.

He'll perform the song along with Calgary singer Jocelyn Flanagan at the Search Foundation's annual fundraising cabaret in Dallas, Tex., tonight. The cabaret evening takes place during an annual conference of special event planners.

The Search Foundation was set up to help those affected by disasters and tragedies such as Hurricane Katrina. It will make its first donation of $25,000 to the New Orleans Foundation for Events Associates revitalization. Many in the music and entertainment industry lost everything as a result of the hurricane.

"Over one million people have already returned home to the New Orleans area, which is amazing considering it was pretty much wiped out," Mr. Quarles said.

Feeling helpless when he saw the devastation left behind by the hurricane, Mr. Quarles decided to use the song to help the hurricane victims.

"I felt at a loss because I was so far away," he said. "I thought this is something I can contribute that will help to raise some money."

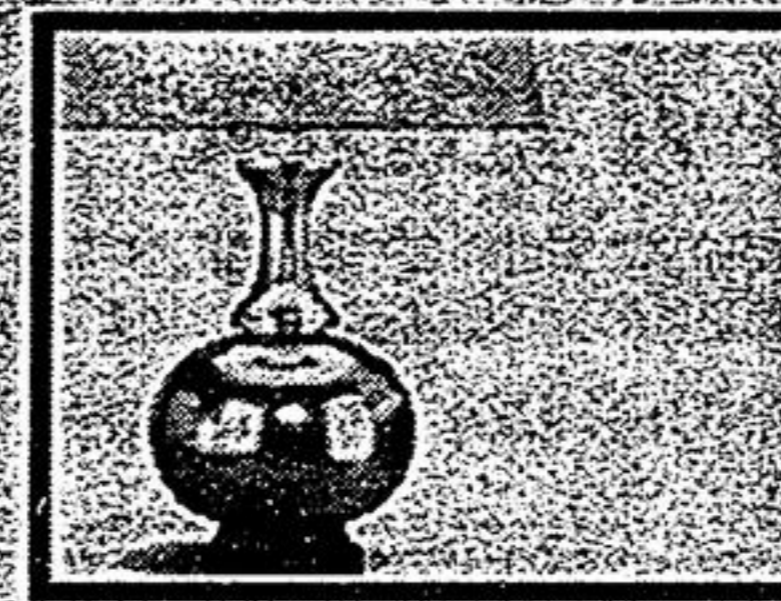

Proceeds from the sale of the song, which Mr. Quarles hopes to have recorded by a celebrity artist, will go to the Search Foundation.

Mr. Quarles brings music to a variety of students and audiences through a number of associations and his Family Quarles band, consisting of his wife, Jan, and his three fiddling and step-dancing children, Braedon, Lauren and Devynn. The band is performing in several southern Ontario locations over the winter.

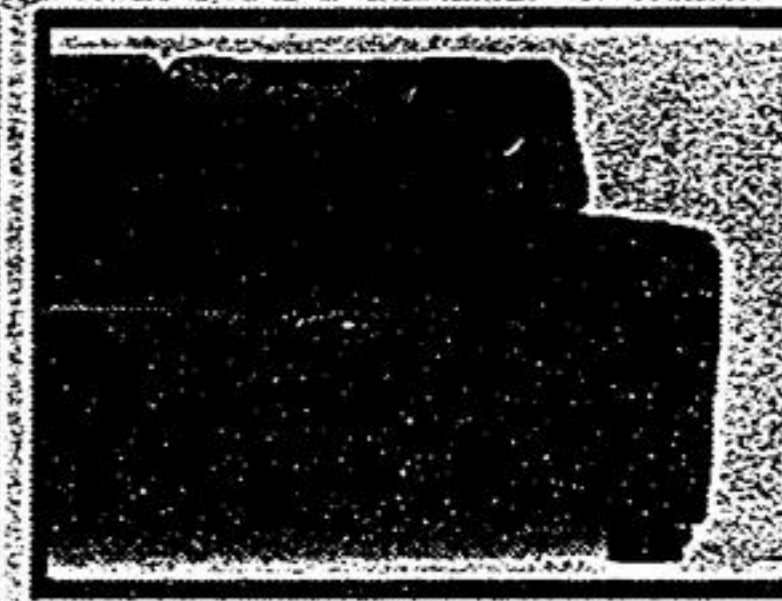

Last summer, the singer/songwriter was instrumental in co-ordinating two Music in the Park events in downtown Stouffville, featuring a number of local musicians. He plans a similar concept for this summer, by holding monthly Music in the Square events in front of the Clock Tower on Stouffville's Main Street.
