Cops link pair of bank robberies

York Regional Police are hoping you can help identify a man wanted for two credit union robberies in Stouffville.

The prime suspect in the heists at the Main Street Pace Credit Union, just east of Ninth Line, last struck Dec. 14 around 3 p.m. He gave the teller a note demanding money and claiming he had a gun.

After she handed over the cash, the man drove south on Lloyd Avenue in a newer-model dark green Dodge Caravan, police said.

The man, described as a Caucasian male, 30 to 40 years old, five-feet, six-inches tall, 150 pounds with brown hair and full brown beard, was wearing a blue and white Clippers cap—the Los Angeles basketball team, not Stouffville's favourite minor hockey and TV commercial stars—and a three-quarter length brown winter coat.

On Thursday, police linked the Clipper Crook to a June robbery at the same

Pace Credit Union. Just after 1 p.m. that day, he walked into the branch, handed a teller a note demanding cash and claiming he had a gun and ran off. He hasn't pulled a weapon and hasn't hurt anyone.
