

Library offering new place to practise your English

If you are new to town and looking for a place to practise your English skills, the Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library is the place for you.

The library hopes to have an ESL Conversation Club up and running if there is enough response.

"The focus is on everyday conversation. It won't be like a class," library CEO Carolyn Nordheimer James said.

People can come to the library, have a coffee and meet for an hour each week to practise their English conversation skills in a comfortable environment.

Our Town with Hannelore Volpe

There is no charge.

If you are interested in the conversation club, call the library at 905-642-7323.

Deaf or hard-of-hearing friends wanted

A Stouffville resident would like to contact others in the area who are also deaf or hard of hearing.

The 30-year-old woman does some volunteer work in the community, but feels isolated since none of her acquaintances can communicate in sign language.

For more information, call 905-640-3965.

Top businesses sought for chamber awards

If a local business is tops in your books, the Whitchurch-

Stouffville Chamber of Commerce needs to hear from you.

The chamber is receiving nominations for excellent businesses in several categories.

Nominations must be submitted by Feb. 16.

You can nominate the business of the year, entrepreneur of the year, corporate citizen of the year and young entrepreneur of the year.

To qualify as young entrepreneur, you have to be 40 or under and have done business in town for at least two years.

A heritage award is also given each year for a long-standing business.

This category is chosen by the chamber's board of directors.

The businesses don't have to be members of the chamber to be nominated, but have to be in Whitchurch-Stouffville.

The winners will receive their awards at the chamber's awards dinner April 19.

Information packages for nominating local businesses are available at the chamber offices in the Stouffville train station.

Call 905-642-4227 for more information.
