Prayer breakfast returning

BY HANNELORE VOLPE
Staff Writer

Seven churches in Whitchurch-Stouffville are collaborating to put on this year's community prayer breakfast. Initiated by former mayor Sue Sherban, the community-wide event invites to pray for elected representatives from all levels of government.

The prayer breakfast features musical performances and inspiring speakers. It is part of larger national and provincial movements.

Last year close to 250 people attended.

The event takes place May 17 at Station Creek Golf Club in Gormley from 7 to 9 a.m.

Martha Dodd, who spoke on behalf of the prayer breakfast at council Tuesday, received council's endorsement of the event.

Clyde Smith is council's representative on the event committee.

Motorfest bigger, better for Teen Challenge

You'll be seeing classic and antique cars, hot rods and military vehicles — as well as a Second World War military re-enactment — at Motorfest Sept. 15.

Sub-titled 'cars for a cause', the event is sponsored by EastRidge Evangelical Missionary Church. It grew out of the former Stouffville Missionary Church car show and barbecue and last year drew 500 vehicles, around 2,000 visitors and raised $18,000.

Organizers are hoping to top those numbers.

Around 90 per cent of donated funds go to help Teen Challenge, John Steckley said in his presentation to Whitchurch-Stouffville council Tuesday evening.

His request of $3,000 to help cover costs of the show will be included in budget deliberations.

Young men fighting alcohol and drug addictions stay at one of four Teen Challenge ranches throughout the country for rehabilitation.

The program, which began in New York City in the 1960s, has a success rate of more than 80 per cent.

The Fan 590 radio station will be conducting a number of interviews in advance as well as broadcasting from Motorfest, which will be held on the Novopharm property on Main Street.

Safety Village needs volunteers

You can assist York Regional Police right here in Whitchurch-Stouffville.

Volunteers are needed to help during daytime hours at the Community Safety Village in Bruce's Mill Conservation Area.

An information session for volunteers will be held March 26 at the village, 3291 Stouffville Rd., between 1 and 2:30 p.m.

Other sessions take place March 22 in Richmond Hill and March 31 in Newmarket.

For more information, call Debbie Robinson at 1-866-876-5423, ext. 7798.
